

SCHOOLWOMEN BRING TOLSTOY TO THEIR FALL MEETING HERE

His Lecture Follows Business Session and Gives First Hand Information and Opinions on Bolshevism—American Woman Doesn't Appeal To Him as Suitable Wife—Wants Too Much Money.

The fall meeting of the Schoolwomen's Club of the Hudson Valley was held in Kingston on Saturday, the Kingston Chapter acting as hostesses for the day. The business session was held at the high school in the morning, Superintendent Michael welcoming the teachers and Miss Elizabeth Mahar of Poughkeepsie, president of the entire club, presiding. Following the routine business, very interesting reports were given by the delegates who had attended the State Federation of Women's Clubs, which was held in New York city recently, and the Teachers' Welfare League, still more recently held in Syracuse.

The club voted to contribute $10 to the Women's Federation Building in Washington, D. C.

An invitation was received and accepted for the club to hold its spring meeting in Poughkeepsie, when it is hoped to have Mrs. Corinne Robinson, sister of Theodore Roosevelt, as speaker.

At this meeting the following new members were received into the Kingston Chapter, which now numbers more than seventy members: Miss Sylvia Shults, Miss Kathryn Barry, Miss Grace Lounsbury, Miss Florence Gorse, Miss Miriam Frost, Miss Margaret E. Smith, Miss Lelia B. Reynolds, Miss Ruth Seigle, Miss Margaret McCulloch, Miss Kathryn Bestie, Miss Eileen Keefe, Miss Elizabeth Blomdorn, Miss Margaret Cordes, Miss Alice Niese, Miss Kathleen Bongartz. Among those present throughout the day was Mrs. M. J. Michael, who is a charter member of the chapter, and guests from Amelia, Ulster Park, Saugerties, Cold Springs, Poughkeepsie, Newburgh, Larchmont, Highland, Middletown and New Paltz.

Following the business session the school women assembled at the Eagle Hotel for their luncheon, which proved to be a fine course dinner, delicious throughout and well served. The tables were exceedingly pretty with ferns and crimson carnations as the centerpieces, and a sprig of privet leaves and berries, piercing the scarlet place cards. Miss Rosecrans had charge of the decorations and the sprigs of privet came from her own garden.

Miss Mahar presided at the "luncheon," as well as at the business session, and at her request the ninety-odd guests stood and sang one verse of America before being seated at the tables. Between courses those present were given a very real treat when Miss Noone gave a reading of "The Musicians," as only Miss Noone can. In response to the continued applause Miss Noone expressed the feelings of all present in "Bobby" Burns' immortal words,

"Some have meat and canna eat,
An' some wad eat that want it.
But we hae meat and we can eat,
Sae let the Lord be thankit."

A little later the Kingston Chapter women rose and sang their own song, composed by Mr. Spaulding, supervisor of music of the city schools.

In a brief "before the coffee cups" chat with the Count some interesting views of this man, son of Count Leo Tolstoy were learned. As he is now owning an American home, he was asked, not unnaturally, if his wife was an American. He said, "Oh, no!" and then went on to say that he was delighted to be married to an American woman because all American women were so anxious to have money; it was such a vital matter with them.

When it was explained to him that American women were not all money-mad by any means, but that the rank and file did want money enough to have a good home and give their children advantages, he exclaimed, "But we do not care whether or no we leave our children anything but an education," and explained the Russian idea of education as quite dissimilar to the American idea. The Russian idea of education includes the becoming familiar with several languages so that one may enjoy the literature of various countries without depending upon translations and it also makes far more of the arts than does the American educational plan. The Count himself speaks seven languages, and if he speaks all as well as he does English he certainly is a master linguist.

It was further learned that both the Count and Countess Tolstoy are artists and are now hiding an exhibition of their paintings at Waterbury, Conn. The count's face lighted up as he said, "And we have sold several paintings for the Russian Relief fund!"

At the close of the repast Miss Mahar with commendable brevity introduced "The man who was the son of such an illustrious father, Count Tolstoy."

The count said he would begin his address on "The truth about Russia," with a story. Some forty years ago an American business man was in Moscow, and in those days an American, especially an American business man was looked upon as a wonder in Russia. So the business men of Russia gave a dinner in honor of this American and there were elaborate welcoming speeches made, complimentary in character, all in the Russian language. While the American could not understand a word of it all, he caught the spirit of the remarks and made a wonderful reply in English, which his hosts could not understand but which they were most enthusiastic over. In fact since it was before prohibition days, they became so enthusiastic at the dinner, that one of the Russian speakers in lauding the greatness of America moved that a bridge be built across the Atlantic ocean to America.

Said Count Tolstoy, "The bridge has been built, but it is a bridge of history. America has outlived the Monroe doctrine and cannot live by herself any more. She must have a part in the affairs of the whole world, especially in Europe." He went on to say that the World War had proven that America was the most powerful financial factor in the world today.

The count showed much justifiable dissatisfaction with the various accounts of Russia given out by foreigners, so many being quite contradictory. There was the report of the American statesman who spent a day or two in Moscow and saw Russia from his car window, yet returned to his own people an "authority" on Russia. Then there are books, "whole books," on Russia written by such people as the English woman, a sculptor, who living in the palace of Lenine while making a bust of the Bolshevik leader saw absolutely all that she did see of Russia from the windows of that palace, etc.

Having lived fifty-three years in Russia, Count Tolstoy said he would try and make his hearers understand Russian life; how the enormous country—the largest country in the world, occupying one-sixth of the land surface of the world—had been built up.

In Russia there have always been two classes of people, the nobility or intelligentsia and the peasants, who are agriculturists. There has been practically no middle class in Russia; industry has never been developed, the industrial workers in Russia numbering only 3,000,000, less than those in New York city.

In the old times the nobility and the peasants were more or less tied together, the nobility guiding the country and the peasants being guided by the nobility and acting as the hands of the country. But during the growth of autocracy the Great and Nicholas I, the most cruel autocrat ever Russia has ever known, the peasants were more and more tied to the land.

Now the nobility of Russia, the intelligentsia, are no longer a class, they are only a group. But Count Tolstoy considered that group the most educated, highly educated of any group in any country, while the peasants were the least educated of any peoples. There are some 300 years difference in education between the nobility of Russia and the peasants.

But the intelligentsia are not only poor business men, some of them are even ashamed to be business people. When groups of these men get together, they never talk business, but over the samovar they talk politics, literature, music, art. In western Europe and America if a man has not enough money, he is not rich enough to be counted financially successful, his friends ask "What is the matter with him, he has not enough money?" In Russia, if a man has too much money, then the question is asked, "What is the matter with him, he has too much money? There must be something wrong with him."

On the other hand 70 per cent of the peasants cannot read or write, yet they were among those who created Russia, they fed Russia and half of Europe, and are indeed attached to the land. In fact the land is the great peasant problem, for they believe that while they are not slaves of the landlords, still not half of the land should belong to them. They have said, "We are yours but the land is ours." Because of this feeling there has grown up the intimacy between the nobility and the peasants of Russia. It was this belief on the part of the peasants that brought about the revolution of 1905. The peasants were downed by the soldiers. In 1917, the soldiers were the revolutionists and the peasants, and that revolution was the child of the war, horrible indeed. That revolution started in the cities and spread over the cities of Russia in one or two days. When it finally reached the villages, the peasants' moment came and they simply took the land. So really the land owners had to leave their estates—the Count had had to leave two small estates of his own of a few thousand acres—before the days of Bolshevism. His brother was also obliged to flee from his estate.

Now Bolshevism claims that it gave the land to the peasants, when really what it did was to leave it to them, so naturally the peasants had

A. BONAR LAW BECOMES PREMIER

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
London, Oct. 23, (5:45 p. m.)—Andrew Bonar Law late this afternoon formally accepted the British premiership from King George, becoming England's first Tory prime minister in 17 years. The personnel of the new cabinet will be announced tomorrow.

A large crowd in front of Buckingham Palace gave Mr. Law an ovation as he left after accepting the premiership.

Lord Curzon, who will hold the post of foreign secretary, said that the new foreign policy would be one of more sobriety and less fireworks.

HIS PARTY MEETS LAW'S CONDITION

Elects Him Leader—New Cabinet Not Complete—Lloyd George Believes Coalition Will Be Necessary.
By Telegraph to The Freeman.
London, Oct. 23.—Andrew Bonar Law was elected leader of the Conservative (Tory) party, this afternoon. He declared that he could not formally accept the premiership in succession to David Lloyd George until the Tories admitted his leadership.

Mr. Law's election was unanimous, all the 439 members present voting for him. The Tory group supporting Austen Chamberlain, was not represented.

The new premier addressed the Conservatives, announcing the policy he would follow. It was anticipated that the meeting would be over by 4:30 and that Mr. Law immediately would go to Buckingham Palace.

While Mr. Law has been able to obtain some of the ministers, he is not yet in a position to announce the complete personnel of the new cabinet.

Dissolution of parliament will be delayed, perhaps until Thursday.

Former Premier David Lloyd George returned quickly to 10 Downing street this morning to consult with some of his former ministerial colleagues. His next speech will be delivered at Colchester on Thursday. Later he plans to tour Wales and Scotland.

Lloyd George visited Buckingham Palace early in the afternoon to say "farewell" to the king. Earlier in the day he had announced that he would conduct his fight as a Liberal, reserving the right to cooperate with the Conservatives if he saw fit to do so. He has opened political headquarters in this city, and is now seeking a house in which to live.

The former premier believes that Mr. Law will find it necessary to establish a coalition government, although Lloyd George will not coalesce except upon his own terms. The former premier admits that he looks for increased labor representation in the new House of Commons.

The Scottish Temperance party has come out in support of the former premier and the Liberal party.

Former Colonial Secretary Winston Churchill, who is confined to his bed with illness following an operation for appendicitis, also announced his support of Lloyd George.

Churchill warned the country against a Labor-Communist coalition and urged the election of parliamentary candidates supporting the former prime minister.

Miss Kyrie Bell, well known English actress, has entered the political fight. She has announced her candidacy in the House of Commons at Brighton.

$100,000 TO BE SPENT IN ENLARGING ORPHEUM THEATRE

Mauterstock Building in the Rear Will be Merged With Present Structure Into Modern Combination Play and Picture House.

The proprietors of the Orpheum Theatre, Broadway, downtown, on Saturday purchased from Albert Mauterstock his three story brick building on Spring street. The building was formerly used by Mr. Mauterstock as a saw mill and joiner department and has a frontage of thirty-seven feet on Spring street and extends back ninety-five feet. The building adjoins the present Orpheum Theatre.

The management of the show house stated this morning that in the spring of 1923 their newly purchased structure will be a part of the new Orpheum Theatre, which they contemplate starting at that time. The present Orpheum building will be entirely renovated and plan of the house will be entirely changed. On the ground floor, in the form of a pit, will be located the orchestra and the auditorium will extend back through the new building. The proprietors intend to model it after the latest first-class combination theatres in larger cities. The sum of $100,000 will be spent to bring it up to the wishes of the management. Besides increasing the value of the theatre three-fold it will also afford seating room for much larger crowds.

In connection with elaborateness of the building first-class circuit performances will be staged along with the best pictures available.

The building will greatly add to the appearance of the lower section of the city and will stand out prominently. When completed the structure will have a frontage of seventy-five feet on Broadway and a depth of 125 feet on the Spring street side.

NEW CONTEST AT THE EXPOSITION; VISITORS WILL VOTE BEST MODEL

Prize to be Awarded One Who Most Efficiently Displays Garments, Not Her Own Charms of Face and Figure—More Style Shows.

M. H. Herzog, chairman of the general committee, announces a new and novel contest at the Exposition which will add to the already great interest of the style shows. The audience each night will vote for the best model and it will be interesting to see the great variety of opinions. The idea is to select that young lady who most gracefully and efficiently displays the garments allotted her but a word of caution must be uttered against letting either figure or beauty influence the opinion. At the closing night a handsome prize will be awarded to the winner.

The style show this evening will show suits and afternoon dresses, and from the talk around town an exceedingly large crowd is expected.

Style shows will be held Tuesday evening, exhibiting furs and evening wear; Wednesday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock, optional displays, and Friday evening, optional and children's styles.

PARKING GROUNDS NEXT TO ARMORY

The board of public works has a force of men busy getting the vacant lot on Broadway between the state armory and the American cigar factory ready for use as a public parking grounds. The lot will be leveled off and graded and several trees removed. This plot is owned by the county. A parking place in the central section of the city is needed, especially when there is some social event at the armory. The grounds will be ready shortly.

REGISTRATION IS BELOW NORMAL

Boards of City Slack in Sending In returns and Complete Figures Impossible to Obtain.

The election officials in eight districts in Kingston have so far failed to report the result of the four days' registration for the fall election. From the figures that have been reported to the board of elections the registration this year is below normal.

The registration of the twelve districts so far received show a total of 5,810 voters registered. The falling off in registration here is thought to be due, largely, to lack of interest on the part of the women who failed to register.

The registration figures so far received are as follows:

Ward, District	Total
Second, 1	649
Second, 2	613
Third, 1	462
Fourth, 1	388
Fourth, 2	401
Fifth, 1	467
Sixth, 1	401
Eighth, 1	487
Tenth, 1	490
Tenth, 2	371
Twelfth, 1	641
Twelfth, 2	440

The returns from the county are also slow in coming in to the election board.

The total city registration last year was 42,200, according to the board of election figures, while the total registration for Ulster county was 43,185, which included the figures for Kingston.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
New York, Oct. 23.—The right of the federal government to forbid the carrying of liquor on ships of American registry and to prevent foreign-owned ships from bringing liquor within the territorial waters of the United States, was upheld today by Judge Learned Hand in the United States District Court.

The ruling of Attorney-General Harry M. Daugherty, declaring the carrying of liquor on American and foreign ships illegal, was upheld by Judge Hand. The jurist held that the Volstead act gave the government the power to impose such restrictions upon the maritime liquor traffic.

Judge Hand's decision carries with it a denial of the injunction asked by the Cunard, Anchor, French lines and other steamship services, which sought to have the internal revenue officials restrained from enforcing the regulations promulgated by the treasury department on the basis of Attorney-General Daugherty's ruling.

Judge Hand's decision, however, does not settle the fight as the steamship lines already have declared they will carry their fight to the United States Supreme Court for a final ruling.

Judge Hand ruled, however, that foreign ships might carry with them "on the eastbound voyage" sufficient liquor to provide necessary rations for the crew. The foreign ships, in arguing for an injunction, had contended that liquor on board was "ship stores" and was an essential part of the rations provided for the crews.

This phase of the decision would prevent foreign ships leaving American ports from carrying a stock of liquors for sale over the bar on the high seas to passengers aboard the vessels.

"So far as I can see," said Judge Hand in his opinion, "in this case the plaintiff has no case. Therefore I will go no further than to issue an injunction against interfering with the carriage of a stock necessary for the crew's rations on the eastbound voyage."

The plaintiff must each give a bond in the sum of $25,000 conditional against the use of such stocks for any other purpose than as crew's rations."

The effect of this ruling, as interpreted by shipping men, is that ships sailing to America from a foreign port, may carry a stock of liquor for passengers to be sold at sea. They may not, however, bring this stock into American ports, and upon leaving the ports of the United States, cannot carry a supply larger than is required for the needs of the crew.

"The suspension of a law of the United States," Judge Hand declared, "is especially a law in execution of a constitutional amendment, is of itself an irreparable injury which no judge has a right to ignore. The public purposes which the law was intended to execute, have behind them the deep conviction of thousands of persons whose will should not be thwarted from what they conceive to be for the public good."

"I have nothing to say about the wisdom of the amendment or the law, but wise or not, one thing is clear—that a drink of whiskey is as hurtful to health and morals outside as inside Ambrosio Light (Ambrosio Light marks the three-mile limit zone of New York harbor). If we were to substitute cocaine or opium for alcohol, it would be the same."

Judge Hand indicated strongly his belief that the hands of law enforcement officers should not be tied by court rulings except in very clear cases.

"It is at best a delicate matter for a judge to tie the hands of other public officers in execution of their duties as they understand them," he said, "and the books are full of admonitions against doing so except in very clear cases."

Washington, Oct. 23.—The government will aid foreign ship lines in clearing up the question of their liquor rights by expediting a quick appeal of Judge Hand's decision to the United States Supreme Court. Prohibition Commissioner Haynes said today when informed by International News Service of Judge Hand's decision.

SMOKE RAISED ROOF OF SHACK

Gallup's Exhaust Supply of Tobacco and Use a Weed Found in the Mountains With Surrounding Results—Another Tale of the Wandering Mountain Leaguers.

"Golly," remarked Blink Biren, "but that is the last of the tobacco."

"What's that?" asked his brother, Zink.

"The tobacco supply is exhausted," explained Blink "and here we expect to be for another month or so if all goes well."

"Well cheer up," said Captain Ralph Roodboy. "I'll see that you boys have something to smoke even if it is not tobacco."

"What are you getting at, now?" asked Blink interested.

"You will find out if you wait until tomorrow," said Roodboy with a grin.

True to his promise the following afternoon Roodboy brought back to the hunting shack a queer looking weed which he had found on a slope of the mountains. Just what it was he did not know but by accident several years before he had found that it did not make a bad substitute for pipe tobacco when in a pinch.

That evening the Biren boys, Raizer Turk and Roodboy drew up in a circle around the fireplace in which several huge logs blazed merrily throwing off a cheerful heat for it was a bitter night in the mountains. All four had their pipes going stuffed to the brim with the weed furnished by Roodboy.

As the smoke of the pipes increased in volume and floated toward Blink Biren said reflectively, I have often wondered if you could get enough smoke together whether it had any lifting power or not."

"Seems to me," replied his brother "that if we continue to smoke much longer well have to open a window or we'll be smothered."

"Fiddlesticks," retorted Raizer Turk. "It's about time the old shack got a thorough fumigation."

"It's getting it," interrupted Roodboy. "look at that cloud of smoke" and he pointed to the rafters above him which were almost hidden from view.

Even as Roodboy spoke the boys were astounded to see the mass of smoke gradually dissolve from view and with it the roof of the shack, and startled to hear a terror-stricken bark from Norville. Roodboy's rabbit dog. It seems rather hard to believe but the mass of smoke had not only lifted the roof from the shack but borne aloft on the mass of smoke clouds was Merilee who soon disappeared from view sailing away on a cloud of smoke.

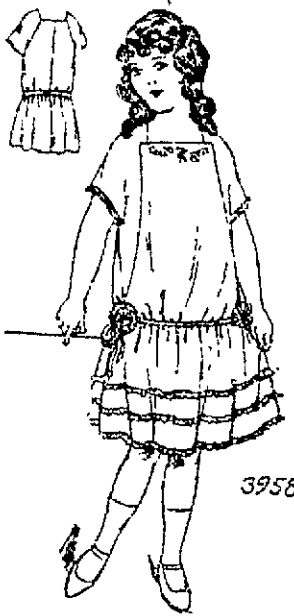

"Jimmy Christmas," said Blink in awed tones, "who'd think it."

Then the boys rushed out of the shack and found that the roof of the building had become lodged in the branches of a tree nearby. Merilee, however, was not in sight. It took several hours of hard work on the part of the Gallupers to get the roof back in place and nailed firmly down.

Just as they completed the job Merilee trotted into the shack bearing in his mouth a rabbit. It developed later that the smoke clouds as they encountered the mountain breezes slowly dissolved and as they did so Merilee had been dropped falling a distance of about forty feet.

Fortunately for the dog he alighted on a plump rabbit which broke the force of the fall. That was lucky for Merilee but unlucky for the rabbit.

What is your future worth?

WORTH is a matter of fitness, whether it is in work or in goods. The purpose a thing or act can fill, makes it valuable. Your worth is measured by what you can do.

What are you worth to-day? WHAT WILL YOU BE WORTH FIVE YEARS FROM NOW? Your regard for self-improvement, your attitude toward systematic study, your decision to sacrifice to-day, that you may enjoy to-morrow, will tell.

Take your future seriously. Plan ahead!!

Vitamines— are the Good Faïres—

They bring the richest gift in the world—Good Health.

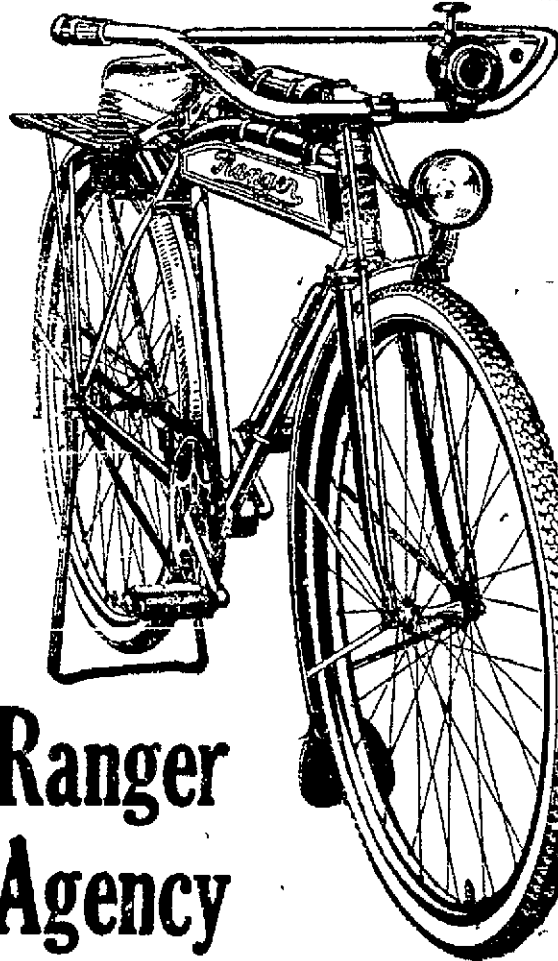

When rosy children, with splendid sturdy bodies glowing with health, run and shout and play, the Good Faïres are their friends.

Bright eyes, steady nerves, a clear skin, and rich blood. Youth in your step and Joy in your heart—all are included in the Good Faïres' Gift.

Vitamines are the mysterious food-factors only recently captured and analyzed by patient Science.

MRS. SALZMANN'S MOTHER'S BREAD abounds in these wonderful elements contained in its ingredients, some in milk, others in shortening, but most of all in Yeast, the richest source of these tiny magic particles, the Hosts of Health. A fairy gift, indeed, which makes rosy children grow into strong men and women, adds youth and activity to the middle years and in the old combats disease and continues the blessing of Good Health.

DANCING FREE AT EXPOSITION

L. S. Coe, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, announced Saturday evening that the general committee, being assured by the splendid attendance of the Exposition being a financial success, had decided to throw open the dancing platform free to all visitors.

Added interest to the dancing is the presence this week of a new, York xylophone artist, who besides rendering solos each evening, will assist the Balto orchestra at both the concerts and the dancing.

SENATOR CALDER FALSELY ACCUSED

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Oct. 23.—"A typical instance of Democratic skulduggery and tariff falsification is being displayed in the state of New York, where Senator Calder, a man who worked his way from the carpenter's bench to the United States senate, is being accused of conniving with the glove manufacturers to swindle the American public through the medium of the protective tariff," declares the Republican Publicity Association, through its president, the Hon. Jonathan Bourne, Jr. "Calder is up for re-election after heroic service on the Republican finance committee of the senate."

"It seems that recently Lucius Littauer, glove manufacturer of Gloversville, N. Y., made an address praising the work of Calder in securing protection for the glove schedule. At once the Democrats broke loose in a tirade against the senator for his pernicious defense of the 'glove trust.' They always conjure up a trust as a political bogey. Answering them Senator Calder is quoted as saying: 'I make no apology for my conduct. I was trying to put American men and women to work and I have succeeded. I was in part responsible for the increase in the duty on gloves not to 400 per cent, as some over-zealous Democrats would have you believe, but to a maximum rate of 70 per cent and this, understand, on the foreign price.'"

"Spoken like a man, a protectionist, and a Republican. There was no fine leather glove industry in this country prior to the protective act of 1890. Apparently what the Democrats have done to muddy the water of this controversy is to quote the rates laid in the present law on gloves and to ignore the provisos following Paragraph 1433 of the Fordney-McCumber law reads as follows: 'Gloves made wholly or in chief value of leather, whether wholly or partly manufactured, shall pay duty at the following rates, the lengths stated in each case being the extreme length when stretched to their full extent, namely: Men's gloves not over 12 inches in length $5 per dozen pairs, and women's and children's gloves not over 12 inches in length, $4 per dozen pairs provided that in addition thereto, on all of the foregoing there shall be paid the following cumulative duties: When lined with cotton wool or silk, $2.40 per dozen pairs, when lined with leather or fur, $4 per dozen pairs, when embroidered or embellished, 40 cents per dozen pairs, provided further, that all of the foregoing shall pay a duty of not less than 50 nor more than 70 per centum ad valorem.'"

Thus no matter what the specific rates may be, imported gloves shall in no case pay more than 70 per cent of their appraised value. Paragraph 915 dealing with cotton gloves, likewise lays certain specific rates, but in no case shall any of the foregoing duties be less than 40 nor more than 75 per centum ad valorem."

In 1921 we imported 615,000 dozen pairs of cotton gloves and in 1922 (fiscal year ended June 30), 1,950,000 dozen pairs. The average import price in 1921 was 37½¢ a pair in 1922, 20½¢ a pair. The Democratic duty was 35 per cent or about 12¢ in the first instance and 7¢ in the second. The Republican duty on the 1922 price would add a maximum of 15 cents. The importers were selling them for from $1.50 to $2 a pair. Imports of kid gloves totalled 965,000 pairs in the fiscal year 1921 and 847,500 pairs in 1922. The former averaged an import price of $1.42 a pair the latter $1.06. The Democratic duties ranged from $1 a dozen and 25 per cent to $2.50, and there were cumulative duties. The importers sold none of them for less than $4 a pair and up to $10. At the maximum of 70 per cent under the present law the average duty on the 1922 importations would have been about 71 cents a pair, which the importers could well afford to pay and sell at 1921-1922 prices and still make large profits."

MME. BERNHARDT, 77, HOPES TO REACH 100

(Copyright 1922 By International News Service)

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Paris, Oct. 23.—Mme Sarah Bernhardt, the "Divine Sarah," quietly observed the seventy-seventh anniversary of her birth today with the optimistic hope that she lives to be 100.

In reply to various messages of congratulation, the famous actress sent the following message through International News Service:

"Please give my love to all my American friends on this day. I hope that you may visit me upon my birthday every year for the next twenty years to wish me a happy birthday."

Despite her advanced age and the accident which made amputation of one of her legs necessary, Mme. Bernhardt is in excellent health and is still the master of her dramatic art.

HOLD BOTH BOYS FOR GRAND JURY

George Delaney and Jean Lamar Waived Examination and are Held to Await Next Grand Jury—Other Cases in Police Court.

Jean Lamar, whose correct name is William Doffy, and George Delaney this morning in police court through their attorney, Judge W. D. Brinnier, Jr., waived examination and were held to await the action of the next grand jury on the charge of burglarizing the homes of James O'Connor and Mr. Gregg on Johnston avenue. Bail bonds were fixed at the same amount.

Jacob Siller was arrested Sunday by Policeman Soper on a charge of having two calves in his auto with their legs tied together in a cruel manner. Siller was fined $10 by Judge Schirrek.

James Cragen of West Strand, arrested last week on a charge of public intoxication, withdrew his former plea of not guilty and pleaded guilty. He was fined $5.

A hearing in the case of Fred Mower, the young negro arrested by Officer Leech at the West Shore station recently on a charge of assault in the third degree, was adjourned by consent for one month.

There was no appearance against William Schoonmaker and he was discharged on motion of his attorney, William D. Brinnier, Jr.

Schoonmaker was arrested the latter part of August on the complaint of Nellie Haggerty of No. 30 Boulevard, who charged him with assault in the third degree. The trial had been adjourned.

Robert G. Groves appeared for the executor Andrew Lang; W. N. Gill of counsel; DuBois Gillette for objector; James Jenkins of counsel.

LIGHT ON PREHISTORIC RACE

Scientist Explains How He Expected to Determine Age of Ancient Central American Cities.

Prehistoric ruins in America will soon be accurately dated. This was the opinion expressed in an address on "The Chronological Yardstick of Ancient America," by Sylvanus G. Morley of the Carnegie Institute of Washington, before the twentieth international congress of Americanists.

Doctor Morley's "yardstick" is the marvelous Mayan calendar by which the ages of the ancient cities of Guatemala and Yucatan will eventually be determined more accurately than the ages of the cities of ancient Egypt.

There was a desultory trading in Mayan pottery carried on with the peoples in Mexico, Peru and the southwestern United States. This pottery, found among these other peoples and its Mayan date determined by comparison with similar pottery in Central America may lead to an approximately accurate date being set upon the cliff dwellings of the United States and ruins in Peru and Mexico, Doctor Morley thinks.

He also told of his researches into the great walled city of Tulum, in Yucatan. The walling of a city was exceptional in Central America and this fortified town on a bluff overlooking the Caribbean sea, with a wall on three hand sides, represents the crude work which followed the breakdown of the great Mayan civilization in the Fifteenth century after Christ, when these early city states fell to fighting their own race.—By Science Service

YOUNGSTER HAD IT SIZED UP

Possibly His Frank Announcement of Situation Was Something More Than a Guess.

A young teacher of the fourth grade in one of the township schools near Indianapolis marked her pupils' papers at her home, and occasionally had the assistance of some of her friends who came in to spend the evening.

One evening the grades were exceptionally low on the papers and the next day at school, the young teacher told her pupils that one of her friends had helped her mark the papers and that she was really ashamed of the poor marks, and she wished them to do better next time.

The next day the marks were considerably higher, so she told the children how glad she was to see the improvement and that she was proud to have her friends see how bright the pupils were.

After making this announcement, she blushed to hear one of the boys say in a loud whisper, "H'm! He was wrong again last night."—Indianapolis News.

NEW FALL STYLES

French Openings Display Latest in Seasonable Clothes.

Black Dress of Heavy Crepe, Embroidered in Silver Threads, is in High Favor.

The French openings are still going on. We have a few stray hints of the course that fashions will take in the coming season especially the conservative fashions. And, after all, it is these which will be the most acceptable, observes a fashion authority in the New York Times.

We have the first faint signs of what the styles will be and they are always thrilling. They signify so much, too, before our minds become involved with extra frills and flourishes for the ideas that one accumulates at this time of the year are apt to be sound. One can refuse to think and then take what the shops have to offer, but one will never be as happy in the result as if a certain amount of originality had been brought to bear, and one's own notions and conceptions had been added to the sum total of the tendencies of the newer styles.

The black dress of heavy crepe, for this material still seems to lead the fashions for frocks of this character, is embroidered in a succession of all over threads in motifs which repeat themselves all up and down the length of the frock itself. There is something about the contrast of silver against black which is most effective. There is an exquisiteness about the combination that is not to be equaled by any other combination of two colors. There can be very little of the silver and a vast quantity of the black and still there will be an artistic effect which has everything to do with the ultimate success of a gown.

In this gown the psychology of that idea has been worked to its limit. There is nothing present except the glitter of the silver against the deadness of the black, and the combination has done all that the combination is expected to do—in creating a contrast which makes the whole garment effective.

FASHION NOTES

Bright hats far outnumber black. Flower-trimmed hats are numerous. Small black lace-trimmed hats are seen in surprising numbers.

Black suede pumps trimmed in patent leather are much in evidence. Red chiffon gowns and those in coral and flame are beaded and plain. Canton crepe in gray and beige is used for a large selection of plaited and tucked frocks.

A number of smart suit effects are shown with figured jacket and plain skirts in dressy materials and modes. The one-strap pump and the pump with elastic at the side, both in black, are worn with gray or beige stockings.

Crepe de chine capes, shirred at the shoulder line, are collared with cabochon roses of the crepe and are an outstanding feature.

Chiffon dance frocks are encountered more often than those of other materials. While skirts are longer they have lost none of their petal like qualities.

One of the smart short separate jackets in paisley that have been noted in Paris made its appearance recently. The model combined the figured material with broad bands of plain blue duffetine at the neckline and cuffs, with narrow brown fur pipings. The coat was cut to bring one large pear-shaped motif diagonally across the front, with a low semisurplice fastening.

Coats for Autumn.

Autumn coats for every-day wear are rather sumptuous, being made of pliable silks and satins with an especially high sheen. The linings are vivid, the coats themselves being navy, black or wood brown.

Timely Repairs Important.

KINGSTON, N. Y., OCT. 23, 1922.

Constantine is better off than some fallen kings have been. The new government of Greece handed him $25,000 in gold when he departed for Sicily and that will pay his expenses for a while.

Modern science has vastly reduced the casualties at sea. The passengers and crew got away in boats from the burning "City of Honolulu" hundreds of miles from any land in the Pacific, but doubtless many would have perished before they were picked up from a calm sea if wireless calls had not brought rescuing ships racing to the scene.

Writing of what he saw in America, Gilbert K. Chesterton says that prohibition, though enforced to some extent among the poor "is certainly not enforced among the rich," and he concludes that "prohibition, whether as a proposal in England or a pretense in America, simply means that the man who has drunk less shall have no drink, and the man who has drunk more shall have all he drink." Certainly there is a difference between theoretical and practical prohibition.

STANDARD OIL MELONS.

Apparently Standard Oil was hurt by its dissolution as a trust by the afterwar troublous times. It has long been steadily accumulating vast assets and recently its units have been declaring enormous stock dividends, running 100, 200 and 300 per cent. We read that since 1893, in addition to the present 400 per cent stock dividend, Standard Oil has paid a total of 751 per cent in cash dividends, an average of more than 32 per cent annually; that from $464,000,000 as reported in 1918, its surplus rose to $499,000,000 in 1919, and to $502,000,000 in 1921, and that at last accounts was still mounting rapidly. The question naturally arises, why has Standard Oil been prosperous to excess while so many other big industrial concerns have been living merely on the hope and promise of better times to come?

No doubt the chief answer is to be found in the ever multiplying use of automobiles and the incalculable eating up of gasoline. It has come to this that people cannot afford automobiles they will even mortgage their homes in order to obtain them, and then, in addition to the cost of upkeep, millions daily pay toll to the Standard Oil companies through the purchase of gasoline. The price paid for gasoline is highly remunerative to the Standard Oil companies, but as average consumers purchase in small quantities and do not count their yearly outlay, they are contented and will be but little disturbed even if they hear of the mighty melons they have enabled the oil companies to cut. Great is Standard Oil and lucky are its stockholders.

A BIG UNDERTAKING.

After long selling liquor for the profit of a prohibition government, the passenger steamships of the United Shipping Board are now disgorging their stocks by the thousands of bottles and doubtless they are also withdrawing from European newspapers their advertisements of the choice vintages they had on sale over their floating bars. It remains to be seen whether the foreign liners will also disgorge, or throw their stocks into the sea, under the ruling of Attorney General Daugherty, who has undertaken to "dry" clean the passenger ships of other nations as well as of our own so that the Shipping Board's liners will not face withering competition. It was such competition that drove our government's ships into repudiation of the Volstead law, and now it is proposed to remove killing competition in another way. But manifestly it is a very big undertaking.

No foreign liners are as yet reported as throwing their liquors overboard at the desire of the Attorney General and in the commercial interests of the Shipping Board. But the big British liners have instituted injunction proceedings in the United States District Court of New York to restrain American government officials from seizing either their ships or the liquor on board. They also broadly hint at the transfer of some of their ships to Canadian ports. The French government threatens commercial reprisal and submit that French liners can not break French law requiring that their crews be furnished wine as part of their daily food. When other protesting foreign liners or governments are heard from it may look more than ever as if the United States must forcibly bring all nations under subjection before universal prohibition on the high seas can be accomplished by a single nation.

3. Does a house plant do better if potted in a jardiniere?

Answers To Previous Questions.

1. Why do they always put the green turtles in market upside down? Because this species would die if allowed to rest out of water on its soft under-shell or plastron. In water, when the creature breathes, the soft shell feels little resistance; but placed on a table, with the weight of the body and upper shell or carapace pressing down, against a surface with no "give" to it, the creature cannot breathe and dies.

2. We have a nice oak tree on our lawn that seems healthy, but it has a lot of dead branches at the top. What ails it?

Probably it is under nourished and developing what is called "stag head," the dead branches looking like stag's antlers. Lack of moisture is one great cause of this trouble, and your tree may be showing the effect of last year's drought. Trees whose roots are not shaded or protected by undergrowth often have stag head. Cut out the dead wood, and the trouble may check itself. A mulch of dead leaves in fall will help the roots through the winter.

3. How long have starlings been in North America?

First imported from England in 1890, a colony of 60 individuals being placed in Central Park, New York city. They proved hardy and unfortunately prolific, and have spread alarmingly. Very pugnacious, driving out native birds, noisy, dirty in their roosts and great thieves of berries and small fruit. Introduced species frequently prove troublesome in a new home where they lack conditions or enemies that keep them checked at home.

AMERICAN MUSIC BY AMERICAN BAND

The U. S. Marine Band, whose tour is undertaken by special permission of the government at Washington will be in this city next Sunday. The distinction of being included in the itinerary is one to be valued as a matter of civic pride, as the band's leave of absence is limited to six weeks. The programs of the Marine Band concerts represent a comprehensive yet well edited and condensed lesson in music conveyed to the mind by actual demonstration instead of tedious word description. Of course, the artists of the band are American citizens enlisted in a branch of the government service for which their talents have peculiarly qualified them. In the past it has been taken for granted that a concert program would be dominated by foreign names in a list of composers. This is not now the case. Many of the composers named on the Marine Band concert program are American. Yet the old world is well represented.

The early compositions of Wagner express the mentality of the musical genius who was becoming acquainted with the public, deferring to it, studying its melodic fancy and utilizing his masterful resources to gratify a taste which his own opinion did not hold in very high esteem. "The Rhine Gold" is the voice of a dominating mood with the public no longer dictating terms but accepting what intellectual power and artistic determination chose to offer. To exclude Wagner from an educational program of music would be a useless thing to attempt. As a matter of biography Wagner's sympathies were in no wise bound up through his career to the systems and institutions which it has been the recent business of the Latin and Anglo-Saxon word to antagonize and in large degree to efface. His genius was no pampered child of aristocratic favor, although he used favor unscrupulously when it was available. He knew hunger and disappointment and humiliation at the hands of people who now proclaim him a leader typical of their sentiments and systems. The Marine Band may be depended upon to give a rendition of Wagner that will satisfy the devoted and unquestioning worshippers and also one which will enable the unsympathetic analyst to study the elaboration of simple themes into a structural magnificence that has made so extraordinary and permanent an impression on the music of the world.

MILTON LAD WELL

RECALLS ANCIENT FERRY.

Its Irate Owner Had Wrong Boys in Jail.

I was very much interested in the account written by Capt. C. Meech Wolsey of Milton in Thursday's Freeman.

I was born in Milton in 1847 and well remember the ferry mentioned where the mules were used to furnish the motive power.

When reading this my mind was carried back to an instance when about a dozen youngsters were playing around the ferry when caught by Jacob Hanley, owner then of the ferry, and arrested and sent to Kingston jail by the sheriff whose name I think was Woolsey. They were there from Friday until Monday, when it was found out they were innocent, as the mischief was done by larger boys. When at the Kingston jail the boys composed the following song:

1. Now then, Milton boys, you had better all beware, of breaking up the ferry boat and live upon the square. For Sheriff Woolsey he is handy and Kingston is as high, he will take you there in sorrow to pine away and die.

2. There was Jacob Hanley, a darned old fool, who would ride up to Milton with his long eared mule. His wagon was behind and his mules they are before. If we ever come from Kingston boys, we will raise the devil more.

3. There is Jacob Hanley who thinks himself so smart. He rides up to Milton on his four wheeled cart. He has got some tenant farmers and he lets them out to poor. If they don't pay the documents he sends them out the door.

4. Now adieu, adieu, to Milton. We can no longer stay. Jake Hanley has arrested us and driven us away. In the jail we must lie upon that old hard floor. If we ever come from Kingston, boys, we will raise the devil more.

UNION CENTER.

Union Center, Oct. 21.—Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Olin attended the Christian Endeavor Convention at Marlborough last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Marx have moved to the city. Lorin Wynkoop and family will occupy rooms in Mr. Marx's house.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Schoonmaker are occupying rooms in Mr. Coutt's house.

Mrs. O. Coutant and Miss Ethel Coutant spent part of last week in Schenectady attending the State Sunday School Convention.

Mrs. Martha Van Keuren enjoyed an auto ride on Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Philip Schoonmaker in their new Essex coach.

Raymond and Eunice Coutant of Schenectady spent the week end at their home here.

Archibald Van Etten and Jesse Fitzgerald are now occupying their new homes.

Miss Bessie House was given a miscellaneous shower on Friday evening at her home in honor of her approaching marriage to Adam Voelker of Jersey City.

MISSIONARY UNION CLASSES UNITE

Mrs. Marcus A. Weed Elected President at First United Conference of Classes of Ulster and Kingston.

A convention of unusual interest was held in the old historic First Dutch Church of Kingston on October 19, when the Classes of Kingston and Ulster became one. The morning services opened at ten o'clock by singing, "Onward Christian Soldiers." The convention was called to order by the president, Mrs. Marcus A. Weed, president pro tem. Mrs. Alfred Van Buren, president of the Classes of Ulster, gave us a most cordial welcome not only to her home church but into the Classes of Ulster. Miss Mary Deyo, in her response, very feelingly spoke of her tender regard for the old home church, and in behalf of the Classes of Kingston, she expressed deep appreciation of the cordial welcome given. The roll call with Scripture responses showed very thoughtful selections. Nineteen auxiliaries in all responded. The secretaries' reports, also the treasurers of the two classes showed a continued progress during the year.

At 11:10, Mrs. George W. Dunn, committee on alien work, very forcefully, expressed the thought that the alien (the stranger within our gates) must be more closely looked after or he will become a menace to society. If America does not take more thoughtful care she will realize some day that the alien is her master. Then followed the address by Miss Eliza P. Cobb, secretary of the N. Y. F. Missions. Miss Cobb began in her usual pleasing manner, bringing congratulations to the United Classes and wishing us a long and happy life together. Then she kindly took us with her in thought to the mission fields of the Orient. The Wallajah School in India and the school for girls in the new North River Station of Lang-Na, China, are in her heart. She made a strong plea that these girls who are pleading for admission to our schools but have to be refused for lack of room, should receive our prayerful consideration. After the benediction we were invited to enjoy the hospitality of the entertaining auxiliary.

The afternoon session was called to order by the president. A prayer for our missionaries and their work was feelingly expressed by the Rev. J. B. Steketee, after which the following were unanimously elected for the term of two years:

For president, Mrs. Marcus A. Weed, Kingston; first vice-president, Mrs. Alfred Van Buren, Kingston; second vice-president, Miss Mary Deyo, Jr., New Paltz; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Edgar Ellsworth, St. Remy; recording secretary, Mrs. J. B. Steketee, Kingston; treasurer, Mrs. William Ellings, Kingston; press reporter, Mrs. Harry Walker, Kingston.

The new president's acceptance was as follows: "Members of the Missionary Union of the Classes of Ulster. I thank you for the honor you have conferred by electing me your president. I deeply appreciate the confidence you have expressed. I thank you for this larger opportunity for service. I realize fully that with larger opportunities will come greater responsibilities. I feel assured that with God's help and the faithful co-operation of the united unions we will do a larger and a better work in the coming future, both in the home and foreign fields, than it would have been possible to do under the old regime. I thank you for the efficient corps of workers you have given me; together we will work and pray and the world for Christ will win, the world to Christ will bring some glad day."

The roll call again brought beautiful Scripture selections and the hymn which followed, "Christ to the world we bring," told to all our prayerful hope that some day Christ will come into His own. The address by Mrs. J. S. Allen, secretary of the Domestic Board, was full of hopeful suggestions for the Home Field. The Indians in their reservations, the colored people of the southland, the Kentucky Mountain whites are all God's children, and all needed our loving care. Her earnest appeal for these less favored children of the world made a deep impression on our hearts. The solo by Mrs. Benjamin

W. Johnston, the soloist of the First Dutch Church, was beautifully rendered and the expression was such as only Mrs. Johnston knows how to give.

Then followed the address by Dr. James Cantine, one of the pioneer missionaries to Arabia, who is home on furlough. Dr. Cantine gave us a most interesting and vivid description of existing conditions in Arabia. Our only regret was that time would not permit us to hear more of the encouraging results of the missionaries' work in Arabia. The suggestions from pastors present were very helpful and encouraging. The registration book showed one hundred and seventy-five delegates registered. Taking it all in all, we felt that this our first united conference had been a day well spent in the Master's service.

SMITH FINDS GREATEST ENTHUSIASM THIS TIME

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
 Oneonta, N. Y., Oct. 23.—With the election two weeks off, Alfred E. Smith continued his campaign of the state here today.

The Democratic candidate is pleased with the receptions he received during his tour of the state last week. In a statement issued in Albany yesterday, he said:

This is my third state-wide campaign for the governorship, and in no campaign have I ever met with such enthusiasm as I have this time in parts of the state that are recorded in political history as Republican strongholds.

Smith said he was confident of the outcome of the election.

ANGELIC CHURCH BARS DUKE OF MARLBOROUGH.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

London, Oct. 23.—A sensation was caused in high social circles today by the action of the Bishop of Oxford in barring the Duke of Marlborough from the diocesan conference of the Anglican Church on the ground that his divorce and subsequent marriage to Miss Gladys Deacon of Boston, makes him a non-communicant under the church laws.

The Week at St. John's.

There will be a celebration of the holy communion at St. John's Church on Thursday morning at 10 o'clock. Saturday being the feast of St. Simon and St. Jude there will be a celebration of the holy communion, at 7:30 a. m.

A "Quiet Day" will be observed for the Women's Auxiliary of the Orange District of the diocese on Thursday of this week from 11:40 a. m. to 3:40 p. m., with brief intermission for lunch. The services will be conducted by the Rev. Father Harrison, Order of the Holy Cross.

MONTOMA.

Montoma, Oct. 23.—Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Franklin of Jersey City have returned home after spending two weeks vacation with her mother, Mrs. O. F. DeGraff.

Mr. and Mrs. Rosette of New York City spent the week end at their summer home here.

Truman Phillips spent a few days in Middletown with his mother, Mrs. Phillips.

Miss Blanche and Harry Eldridge spent Sunday last with O. F. DeGraff and family.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

BY MARY GRAHAM BONNER

MOUNTAIN SHADOWS

"Along a line of mountains," said Daddy, "the Shadows were having a party."

"This line of mountains was along a beautiful river and the mountains stood very straight and tall and close together to show how proud they were that they should be mountains by such a splendid river."

"Now, down over the river and mountains, Mr. Sun was shining. It was one of his brightest days. He felt so well. It seemed as though all his thoughts were so clear and so pleasant and so bright."

"He was smiling down at the river. He was smiling at the mountains, too."

"It was when the Shadows first saw how bright and happy and gay he was that they suggested their party."

"Mr. Sun had been delighted to do what he could to help them."

"So they played. They moved from one place to another. Sometimes they would have their games along one part and then another, and as they moved, Mr. Sun moved too."

"Or perhaps it was Mr. Sun that moved too, and the Shadows moved so as to have Mr. Sun help them in their games."

"I think it was that way! But the Shadows thought Mr. Sun was following them, so I'm telling about their party in their way."

"The Blue Mountain Fairies came too."

"You know they are very fond of the top places in the mountains where they make their homes, and often they can be seen playing at the tops of mountains. Perhaps you cannot see each fairy distinctly, but you can see the great numbers of them by their blue frocks."

"Yes, they came to the Shadows' party and the Green Fairies came, dressed in their lovely frocks of pale green leaves."

"The Gnomes and the Elves came. The Elves brought their special bird, Fly-Iligh, with them."

"And old Mr. Giant and Willy Witch came to the party, too, and Mr. Sun's children, The Rays, and his grandchildren, the Sunbeams, were all on hand.

"Fond of the Top Places."

"The Boogie family came along and so did the Owl family and the Brownies came, too."

"The children of the Father Pine Trees were on hand and so were the children of the Hemlocks and the Pines."

"It was certainly a very wonderful party and it was given during the middle of the day."

"People passing along the river, said:

"Look at the mountains! And see the Shadows. At one time they are in one place—and then in another."

"How lovely they look, and they seem to be spreading themselves so lovingly over the mountains—such big Shadows, too!"

"For the people did not know that all the Fairies and Brownies and Shadows and children of Mr. Sun were having a party."

"On they played until evening came, and Mr. Sun went to bed, wearing his best red night-robe."

"Then some of the Sunset Fairies came along, dressed in lovely gray and rose costumes."

"The Twilight Shadows took the places of their sisters and brothers, and the party kept up for some time."

"But the people only knew that it had been an unusually beautiful day and that the scenery had been wonderful."

"They didn't know what was happening in Shadowland and Fairyland."

"But the Shadows and the Fairies, the Brownies and the Elves, and all the different guests, said they had never had such a beautiful time dancing and playing up and down their beloved, favorite line of mountains."

"And the mountains said:

"We're glad we're mountains, for so many lovely creatures play upon us grow upon us and shine upon us."

"For, like all fine, big splendid things, they weren't contented about themselves!"

The Carefree Workman.

"Did you see that they're trying to assassinate the eight-hour law?"

"What do I care? I never worked that long in my life."

Terrible Examples.

"Why do improper plays prosper?"

"Because," said Miss Cayenne, "so many proper people apparently think it necessary to study impropriety in order to avoid it."

GOOD SALADS AND DRESSINGS

With all the delicious fruits and vegetables that each season brings, there need not be a lack of good salads at any time.

Frozen Fruit Salad.—Take one cupful each of oranges, bananas, pineapple, green grapes, whipped cream and fruit salad dressing, add sugar, if necessary. Dice the fruit, add the remaining ingredients and mix lightly. Fill mold, pack in ice and salt and let stand four hours.

Fruit Salad Dressing.—Take one-fourth of a cupful each of pineapple and orange juice, the juice of a lemon, one-fourth of a cupful of lemon juice, one teaspoonful of flour and three of water, one egg and one-half cupful of cream, whipped. Scald the fruit juice. Mix the sugar and flour and add the cold water, mix to a smooth paste. Add the beaten egg, stir in the hot liquid slowly. Cook in a double boiler, stirring constantly until thickened. Cool, and when ready to use fold in the whipped cream. This makes and French dressing.

Baked Apple Salad.—Wash and core the desired number of red apples. Fill the center of each with a section of banana and sprinkle sugar over the top. Cover the bottom of a shallow dripping pan with water and set the apples in it. Bake until tender, but not too long to lose the shape of the apple. Serve on lettuce with boiled dressing or with mayonnaise.

Almond Salad Dressing.—Put two ounces of blanched almonds through the fine knife of the meat chopper, then pound to a fine paste. Add one cupful of mayonnaise, one-half cupful of currant jelly, the juice of half a lemon and a cupful of whipped cream. Serve with fruit salad.

Tomato Salad.—Take firm, round, ripe tomatoes, peel and cut into sections. In the center place a small yellow tomato, set the tomato on a heart leaf of lettuce and serve with a rich mayonnaise.

Pear Salad.—Fill halves of canned pears with chopped nuts and dates, then invert on lettuce. Just before serving sprinkle with grated cheese and French dressing.

Nellie Maxwell

Believe It or Not. A big game hunter had just returned from the hills and was recounting some of his adventures.

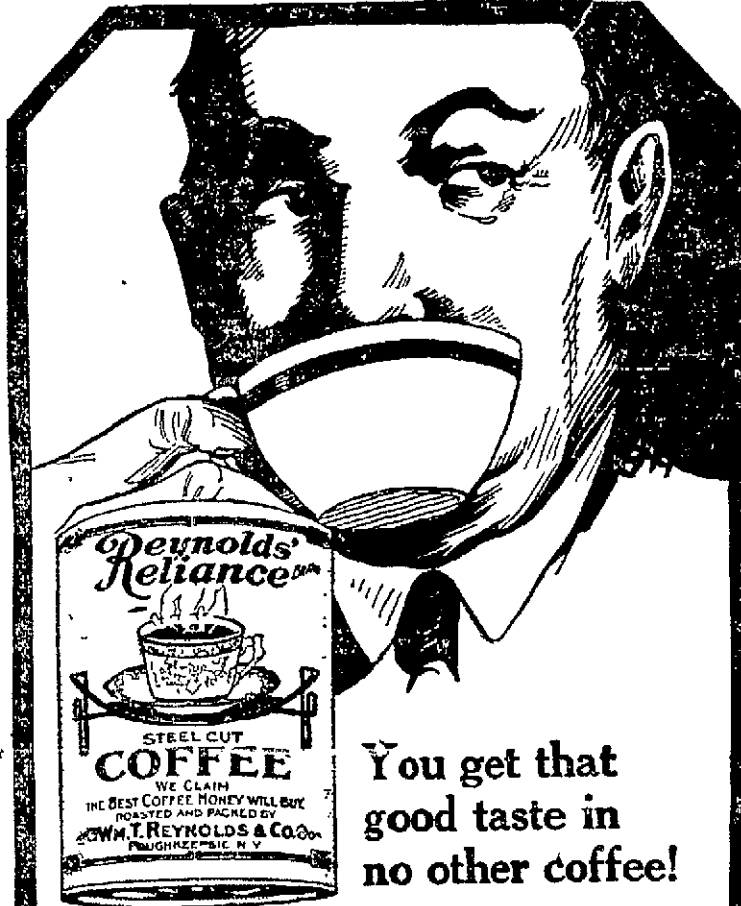

"The most astonishing experience I had," he said, "was when I fired my last bullet at a bear and missed him."

"Did the bear give you a chase?" asked one of the listeners.

"No. You see he knew me by reputation and was so surprised at my missing him that he fainted dead away."—American Legion Weekly.

"Yuletide."

The etymology of "Yule" conclusively proves the pagan origin of this pleasant old Christmas custom of the Yule festival. The feast of the sun and Thor—always celebrated in Saxon days at the winter solstice—was termed Yule, the significance of which was ale; and of this word Yule is a corruption.

You get that good taste in no other coffee!

Taste and smell determine good coffee. The thing is to get a coffee that tastes as good in the cup as it smells in the roasted berry. Reliance Coffee does that very thing.

No other coffee has this peculiar taste-smell characteristic. You find it in Reliance, because we mellow and roast it by an old-time special process.

Customers who use Reliance tell us they could identify it blindfolded by the rich bodied aroma.

You can rely on your sense of smell in selecting Reliance Coffee because that appetite-creating-odor is bound to linger until you pour out the last drop.

Your grocer will bring you a pound of it on his next call. Packed only in oval canisters, bearing our name. Wm. T. Reynolds & Co., Inc., Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

The resignation of David Lloyd George as British Premier and the calling of Andrew Bonar Law to form a new cabinet bring these men into prominence. Philip Sassoon is Lloyd George's secretary and political adviser. Lord Curzon and the Earl of Derby, Conservatives, have promised to support Bonar Law. Lord Balfour, Lord Birkenhead and Austen Chamberlain, Lord Privy Seal, were members of the George Ministry. General Sir George Younger and Sir Eric Geddes, brother of the British Minister to Washington, had much to do with the overthrow of Lloyd George.

Here are the first pictures to arrive from the frozen north from the Amundsen party, in which Raold Amundsen, noted explorer, hopes to fly across the North Pole. The Maud, his ship, is frozen solidly into the ice, while Amundsen and Lieutenant Omdahl, his pilot, will live in a small portable house at Wainwright, eighty miles from Point Barrow. The Eskimos who helped load the Maud, are shown going aboard the schooner C. S. Holmes, the last vessel to see Amundsen.

These remarkable pictures show the burning, in mid-Pacific, of the big liner City of Honolulu, the rescue of her passengers and crew by the freighter West Farallon and the group of happy survivors huddled on the deck of the U. S. Army transport Thomas, to which they were transferred to be brought back to America.

Two of the greatest electrical minds in the world met at the General Electric Company's plant at Schenectady, N. Y., when Thomas A. Edison called on Dr. Charles P. Steinmetz, Chief Consulting Engineer. Dr. Steinmetz is showing Edison a piece of wood he has just shattered with artificial lightning, and Mr. Edison declared even he "was amazed." Dr. Steinmetz, by the way, is a candidate for the office of State Engineer on the Socialist ticket.

K. OF C. COUNCIL OPENS CELEBRATION

Sunday morning at 8 o'clock at St. Joseph's Church, a memorial Mass opened the celebration of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the local council of Knights of Columbus. The Rev. Joseph G. Cushman, chaplain of the order, officiated and preached to the large assemblage of Knights.

Following the services the first and second degrees were conferred on a large class of candidates at the K. of C. Home on Broadway. In the afternoon the major degree was administered to a class of about sixty members. A large number of Knights were present from neighboring cities and their representative Grand Knights extended their congratulations on the silver jubilee of the local order.

Tuesday evening at the Stuyvesant Hotel a banquet will be rendered the members, at which time eminent speakers will be heard from. On Wednesday evening the celebration will be closed when the Knights and their families assemble at the Knights' Hall and enjoy a social evening, which will include an entertainment program, refreshments and dancing.

FAMINE MENACES THRACIAN PORTS

Athens, Oct. 23.—Famine and pestilence threaten a terrible calamity of death among the Greek and Armenian fugitives crowding Thracian ports, according to information brought here today by refugees. They said that all of the ports were jammed with fugitive men and women awaiting transportation to Greek soil. Lack of food, medical attention and shelter is causing grave suffering.

A monster delegation was held here on Saturday in support of the revolutionary government. Colonel Gonatas, chief leader of the revolutionary party, promised that those to blame for the Greek military disaster in Asia Minor would be punished.

Delegations representing the Greek revolutionary committee visited the Allied legations, asking for their support.

Henry Stevens.

Henry Stevens, immensely wealthy brother of Mrs. Edward Wheeler Hall of New Brunswick, N. J., has been quizzed again by the authorities in their investigation into the killing of the Rev. E. W. Hall and Mrs. Eleanor Mills, his choir leader and "wonder woman," to whom he was "Gypsy King."

UNION CENTER.

Union Center, Oct. 23.—Mrs. Lena Odbenshine and granddaughter and Harry Cole of Central Valley and Mr. Cole's father-in-law, Mr. Greene, of Turners called on Mrs. L. Van Keuren one day the past week. Mrs. Van Keuren had not seen them for 28 years and was very glad to see them.

Mrs. Herman Bunje and Mrs. Charles Bunje called on Mrs. L. Van Keuren Tuesday.

Mrs. Herman Bunje of Jersey City and Mrs. Charles Bunje of this place spent Tuesday evening with Mrs. P. H. Schoonmaker.

Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Schoonmaker spent Wednesday evening with L. Freer and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Marz have gone back to New York city and Loran Wynkoop and family of this place will occupy their house during the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Fitzgerald and family have moved into their new bungalow.

Mrs. E. Schneering and grandson, Robert Grass, have returned to Brooklyn for the winter.

Alfred Slater of Kingston is home this week helping his father pick apples.

Mrs. Ezra Gardner of Shady called on Mrs. L. Freer Tuesday.

Mrs. R. L. Webb of Rutherford, N. J., and daughter, Sarah, spent the week end with Mrs. Anna L. Van Wagner.

Mrs. Alonzo Van Wagner and son, Floyd, called on Mrs. Charles Zimmerman Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Schoonmaker have moved from their summer camp to the Coult's place for the winter.

Mrs. John Beaver, Jr., of Esopus visited her mother, Mrs. Howard Burger, Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Jesse DuBois and daughters, Jeanne and Marion, of Kingston visited Mr. and Mrs. William V. DuBois Sunday afternoon and evening.

It is rumored that wedding bells will soon be ringing.

The Ladies' Aid Society are planning for an entertainment and fair to be held in November. Watch for the date.

TWO UPSETS IN SATURDAY GAMES

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
New York, Oct. 23.—Pre-game calculations suffered only two real upsets in Saturday's football results. These were the defeats of Dartmouth and Columbia by Vermont and New York. The remainder of the contests were conventional in outcome.

Harvard was favored to beat Centre College and it did, although the Crimson received the benefit of the doubt on all breaks.

In the east, the victories of Yale, Princeton, West Point, Cornell, Lafayette, Pennsylvania, Penn State, Washington and Jefferson, West Virginia, Brown and Georgetown were in line with expectations.

So were the results in the Western Conference, with the possible exception of Northwestern's 7 to 7 tie with Minnesota and the fact that Illinois, stripped of nearly every vestige of veteran strength, carried Iowa, conference champion, and victory over Yale, to an 8 to 7 score.

The defeat of Purdue by Chicago, that of Ohio State by Michigan and Wisconsin's 20 to 0 verdict over Indiana, were anticipated as was the Navy's 13 to 0 victory over Georgia Tech.

This latter gave the east the odd victory in the intersectional meetings. Harvard beating Centre and Boston College losing, 10 to 8, to Detroit.

CURZON PROPOSES NEAR EAST PARLEY GO OVER

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
London, Oct. 23.—Lord Curzon, who will hold the post of foreign secretary until his successor is announced, today proposed to France and Italy that the Near East peace conference be postponed owing to the political situation in England and the forthcoming election.

First Student of Germs.

In 1675 a merchant of Amsterdam wanted to determine that there were as many threads in a given area of linen as the manufacturer claimed, and for the purpose perfected a more powerful microscope than had hitherto been made. A drop of water fell by accident upon the line he was examining one day, and he found to his amazement that it was full of moving things. After trying other subjects, he examined some tartar from his teeth, and of course, found bacteria. He communicated with the Royal Society of London, who had a duplicate made of the lens, and from this grew the whole study of bacteria.

The Earth's Core.

At a meeting of the Seismological association at The Hague recently, Professor Wiechert asserted that his studies of the varying velocity of the earthquake tremors passing through the interior of the globe led to the conclusion that the earth consists of a central core of iron or steel about 5,580 miles in diameter surrounded by a stony shell 930 miles in thickness. Between the outer solid rind and the inner layer of rock covering the metallic core he thinks there is a layer of liquid or plastic material lying a little less than twenty miles below the surface of the earth.

Plant More Trees.

There are thousands of abandoned gravel pits, sandy stretches and unutilized corners of parks in the United States which could be used to advantage for forest plantations. They add to the landscape value of the parks, and the ultimate value of the timber will frequently make the operation financially profitable.

Wedding Gifts Called Toll.

The custom of giving presents to bridesmaids originated in a form of toll. The bride's girl friends went through the form of preventing the bridegroom and his friends from taking her from her home, a mock battle ensued, each party pelting the other with sweetmeats, and this was finally settled by the bridegroom making presents to all of the girls.

Mont St. Michel Abbey Restored.

Tourists who visit Mont Saint-Michel, off the coast of Normandy, will find the Benedictine abbey which crowns its summit restored for worship. As early as the eighth century Mont Saint-Michel, possessed religious associations, but the present buildings only date from the thirteenth to the sixteenth century. The height of the church exceeds the height of the rock upon which it stands 165 feet, and the granite of which it is built was brought by boat from the Isles of Chausey and hoisted up the steep side of the hill. Since 1874 the Mont has been under the care of architects appointed by the Ministry des Beaux-Arts, and by their research and restoration the abbey fortress now appears in almost its former grandeur.

Frozen Eggs All Right.

Frozen eggs are good eggs. So concludes S. K. Robinson of Chicago after finding that microscopic examination, freezing test, incubation, shaking test, and effect of air and light tests were met as well by the solidified as by the fresh egg. He declares that fine mayonnaise dressing which held well in a warm room for 30 days had been made from the refrigerated product.

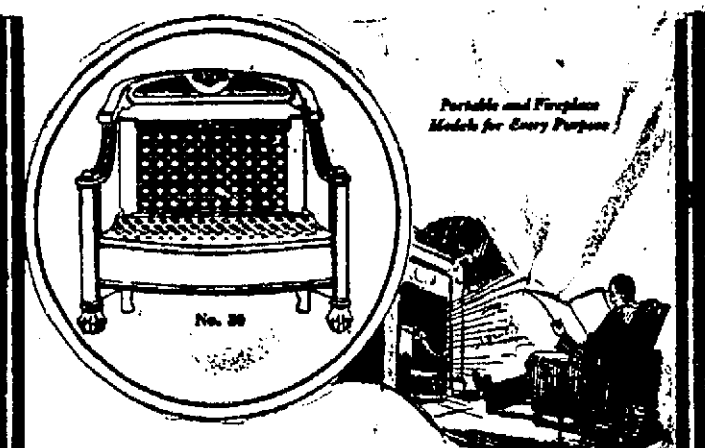

Unless Humanity Changes.

"Do you think that the troubles between capital and labor will ever be permanently adjusted?"

"I don't know," replied Senator Sorghum. "I'm afraid there will always be people who want work without paying for it and other people who will want pay without working for it."

The Snake's Dinner.

A Welsh naturalist says: "One day, while hunting for specimens in the early summer with a friend, we came across a fine snake; measuring it, we remarked a sort of protuberance or lump midway between its head and tail. We took no further notice of this, carrying the snake with its head downwards, till it appeared that the lump moved gradually towards the head. Fastening a piece of grass to the end of its tail, and hanging it to a tree, we anxiously awaited the result. At last its month began slowly to open, and a large toad made its appearance. The toad was covered with a greenish slime, and after some minutes recovered, and was, seemingly, little the worse for its imprisonment. My friend still has the snake and toad preserved in spirits of wine. The snake was the common gray, and not by any means the smallest of that kind that I have seen."

Casting the Dead to Hyenas.

To certain tribes of East Africa, a dead body is "taboo," and they will not touch it. They look upon the hyena, who is believed to embody the spirit of their ancestors, as a friend, and it is to these scavengers that their bodies are delivered at death—and even before death, many of them being torn asunder and worried while still alive. When a native of these tribes is ill, food and drink are given till the hope of recovery is abandoned; and the patient is put out at night for the hyenas. In many instances where it is suspected that the illness may prove fatal, a string is tied to the toe of the sick one, and so long as there is an answering pull on the string the patient is provided with food and drink each day, but if there is no reply to the pull of the string no investigation is made, and the hyenas, never far away, can take their prey.

That Word "Sterling."

Of unusual interest is the derivation of the word "sterling," as applied to something that is "genuine, pure, undiluted, or of excellent quality." The original form of the word was "easterling." The Easterlings were the north Germans, or the merchants of the Hanseatic league, the original "moneyers" of England. The name of these merchants came to be applied to coin or goods of a fixed, standard value, answering all tests. In the time of Edward I, we find an English coin issued of the designation of a dinar or dinarius, called "sterling." Since that time the word "sterling" has been applied to the English pound, which before the war was regarded as the best value in the world.

Cardiff, England, Oct. 23.—On top of the political crisis Great Britain was threatened today with another gigantic outbreak of labor troubles. One hundred thousand Welsh miners gave notice through their leaders they would strike within two weeks unless their union was recognized. Such a strike would tie

KATHRYN PLATT GUNN TO BE HEARD HERE NOV. 10

KATHRYN PLATT GUNN.

It has now been definitely settled that the concert to be given by Miss Virginia Los Kamp, contralto soloist of the Rondout Presbyterian Church assisted by other notable artists, for the benefit of the Kingston Federation of Women's Clubs, will occur on the evening of Friday, November 10th. It will be held at St. Mary's Hall, thanks to the courtesy of Father Scully. Assisting Miss Los Kamp will be Kathryn Platt Gunn, American violinist who has been heard by Kingston music lovers, and who made a host of musical friends when she appeared in Kingston before. Miss Gunn today occupies an enviable position among the leading violinists of this country. Moreover she is endowed with a charming personality. Having a real love for her art as well as the needful technique, she holds the serious and delighted consideration of her audiences.

Miss Ethel Watson Usher will be the accompanist at this concert, which means a very great deal, and Ralph Horace Sprague will give a one-act reading. Tickets can now be purchased at the Federation booth at the Exposition and of Federation mem-

HANDLING CIDER
WITHIN THE LAW

Palmer Canfield, Jr., of this city, legal adviser to Ralph A. Day, federal prohibition director of the state of New York, has prepared in simple form to meet the many inquiries concerning the making, use and sale of non-intoxicating cider and of vinegar upon the farm and in the home, which is interesting to all makers at the present time making time and should be preserved:

May a person manufacture non-intoxicating cider in the home without a permit? A. Yes.

In so doing may he take his apples to a custom mill and have them made into cider? A. Yes.

When so made without a permit may such non-intoxicating cider be used in the home of such person? A. Yes.

May such cider in the home be allowed to turn to vinegar? A. Yes, provided no sugar or other fermentable substance is added to increase the alcoholic content thereof.

May such vinegar be sold to anyone? A. Yes.

Is a permit required by the seller? A. No.

Is a permit required by the buyer? A. No.

May a person making such cider in the home or having it made at a custom mill, sell the same at any time to persons having permits to make vinegar? A. Yes.

Is a permit required by the seller in the foregoing case? A. No.

Is a permit required by the buyer? A. Yes.

May a person making such cider sell same to the public in general? A. Yes, provided he preserves the same at the time when made.

How shall it be preserved? A. By putting it up in sterile closed containers or treating it by the addition of benzoin or soda or other substances which will prevent fermentation in such proportion as to maintain the alcoholic content remaining below one-half of one per cent of alcohol by volume.

May he sell such cider without preserving same? A. Yes, provided it contains less than one-half of one per cent of alcohol by volume.

Can the purchaser use or possess such cider after it contains more than one-half of one per cent of alcohol by volume? A. No, except for the purpose of making same into vinegar under a permit.

Is cider made and used in the home subject to tax under the internal revenue laws? A. No.

Can the purchaser use or possess such cider after it contains more than one-half of one per cent of alcohol by volume? A. No, except for the purpose of making same into vinegar under a permit.

H. H. FRAZEE'S SPARKLING AMERICAN COMEDY

HER TEMPORARY HUSBAND

By E. A. PAULTON, Co-Author of "Erminie," "Niobe," "Adele," Etc.

"Her Temporary Husband" is a smart clean, wholesome farce, the masterpiece of a past master in the art of developing clean comedy situations and bright lines. It affords abundant opportunities for every member of the distinguished cast. Excruciatingly funny farcical situations followed in rapid succession and the climax of each act never fails to evoke numerous curtain calls and uproarious laughter every performance at the Frazee Theatre New York, where "Her Temporary Husband" has been drawing crowded houses for many weeks. The cast is headed by GARLAND GADEN and includes:

Laura Lorraine, Oscar Madison, Emory EEIs,

Franklin Thomas, Ellen Stevenson, Edward

Osler and others.

SCHOOLWOMEN BRING TOLSTOY

no particular objection to Bolshevism. Bolshevism had nothing to do with the village, it was born and bred in the cities, and consists of two groups: the leaders and the mob. The leaders have always been the same, Lenin, Trotsky and a few others, while the mob always changes and grows less.

Count Tolstoy summed up Lenin as an honest man but a fanatic, a blind follower of the program of Karl Marx. Personally the Count did not know him as he was in exile in Switzerland when Tolstoy was still in Russia. Nor did he know or meet Trotsky when he was in New York. Trotsky dined on the East side, and the Count admitted he did not dine on the East side when in New York.

All Bolsheviks are Communists distributing everything to everybody. Business men they count as robbers, and they rob the robber. The Bolshevik leaders speak to the people from every corner, asking their brothers why they allow the idle capitalists to live in palaces, which they have acquired by the work of the laborers hands. They urge their brothers to chase out these idle rich from their palaces, their banks, their factories and take possession of them, for themselves. They have done this and they have interpreted nationalization into distribution, and at the end of a week the work of years was torn to pieces, and that by the very lowest element of the Russian people; soldiers, sailors, (mostly deserters at that). The Count made it very emphatic that these people were in no sense to be compared to the American laborer. The latter he said had some education, a home, a family, life insurance, quite likely a Ford. But this mob part of Bolshevism, these so-called workmen, have no homes, no families, no savings and so nothing to lose. These are the Bolsheviks, not the peasants. They are the proletariat, and they got their power through the soldiers whose seizures in the name of nationalism spelled destruction. Wages were raised and then hours of work shortened. No industry could withstand such action. The incentive to industry was killed. Why work when one could rob? Said Count Tolstoy very sadly, "Conditions in Russia are dreadful! The Bolsheviks are successful in only one thing: printing money." There are now so many zeros to Russian money, that the Count said he could not pronounce the names, they were like terms in astronomy. They are still adding zeros and all are multi-millionaires. But the difference between Russian and American millionaires is that the former are starving while the latter are prosperous. Count Tolstoy said that when he next went to New York he meant to buy one American dollar's worth of Russian rubles, which would be 10,000,000, just so he could know for once how it would feel to be a multi-millionaire. The only limit to the making of Russian money is a limit of paper, and when that seemed imminent they added zeros to the money already printed. Lenin had once exclaimed, "Is it possible that a shortage of paper will kill us?"

Industry in Russia has been destroyed, and the Bolsheviks realizing that fact, last year allowed the people to work in their own factories. Still the resumption of industry was only about 20% of normal, and even so there was overproduction. Why? The people are so poor that they cannot purchase what has been manufactured for the money has no purchasing power. They also tried to nationalize the land, but did not succeed. The peasants accustomed to so many changes of government are still holding on to the land, which has been robbed of the wheat, which the Bolsheviks claim they tried to buy. Nor was last year's famine so much famine as it was lack of production. The peasants raised only what enough for their own families, so that only a 50% crop was produced.

Then Count Tolstoy compared the conditions in Russia with the French Revolution. The French had for their motto, "Liberty, Fraternity, Equality," the Bolsheviks claim that the Bolsheviks' motto is "Equality, but no brotherhood; no liberty, yet absolutely impossible. Yet, though it was impossible the Bolsheviks had succeeded in so far as that they had reduced the entire nation to an equality of the lowest possible level; all were equally miserable. The Count considered that conditions could not continue, as begun by the Bolsheviks. Even Lenin is realizing this, and is changing his policy. But, the Count noted that the changes of policy were so many and sudden that he was not sure he was rightly describing them.

Trade ownership is now allowed resulting in a new class; a new bourgeoisie; the "new rich." In the old times those who owned estates and industries were educated and honest, the new owners of today are uneducated and dishonest. From the outside things may appear all right, but within there are fightings and discontent: all over the country. It is only a question of time, until Bolshevism reaches the villages. The Bolsheviks can't pay the soldiers to protect them as there are only 200,000,000 rubles left for that now. In the future the peasants and the soldiers will get together and overthrow the Bolsheviks.

Count Tolstoy said the question was often asked of him, "What would your father have said of Bolshevism?" The Bolsheviks claim that the Communism of Count Leo Tolstoy was a great mistake. It is the Communism of the Bolsheviks that is not of the right kind. The Communism of all great thinkers is based on love, and teaches the principle of giving—even to the last shirt—in love to another. The new Bolshevik Communism is based on envy and hatred and teaches, "Love the other fellow but take all he has." Said the Count: "The Communism of Christ was shown in the miracle of the loaves and fishes; it was a miracle of love, for as the few loaves and fishes were passed about among the multitude, having learned to give rather than to take, each declared that the food might be given to those about him, thus resulting in the taking up of the basketful that remained." The Count said his

MORE ROAD WORK UNDER GOV. MILLER

Has Let Contracts for Three Times as Much New Construction as Smith and Maintained 1,000 Miles More—More Concrete.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Albany, Oct. 23, (Special).—In a statement issued by Highway Commissioner Herbert S. Sisson, he shows by comparison the activities of the highway department during the administrations of Governor Smith and Governor Miller. Under the Smith administration construction contracts were let for 320 miles of highways that had not been previously contracted for. Since Governor Miller was inaugurated contracts have been let for the construction of 1,001 miles of highways.

For maintenance and general repair in 1919 and 1920 the highway department expended $3,276,000 on 7,260 miles of highways. The maintenance of 8,989 miles of highways the Miller administration has spent $10,320,000.

For reconstruction and resurfacing of highways built since the beginning of improved highway construction in this state contracts were awarded under Governor Smith amounting to $5,730,000, covering 275 miles as against contracts for $9,347,000 for 430 miles under Governor Miller.

In 1919, 153.6 miles of pavement were laid and in 1920 344.4 miles. In the first year of Governor Miller's administration 632 miles of highways were completed, of which 372 miles were of concrete.

During 1919 and 1920 contracts were let for $22,926,000 for the completion of highways abandoned by contractors during the war and for the construction of 320 miles of new highways. The present administration has let contracts for $35,689,000 providing for the building of 1,001 miles of new highways and for 39 miles of highways which had been previously contracted for but the contracts canceled.

Under the Smith administration 41 per cent of the pavement constructed was of concrete, while under the Miller administration 59 per cent was of concrete. At present there are 861 miles of highways under contract of which 51 per cent is of concrete type.

XYLOPHONIST AT THE EXPOSITION

Starting this afternoon an added attraction at the Exposition will be a xylophone artist, one of the finest players in the country. He will assist the orchestra in their concert and dancing work and also render solos at each entertainment. This instrument, well played, will be a popular feature and put more pep into the dance music.

This afternoon and tomorrow the child concert will be started at four each afternoon. The first examination will be in the nature of an examination contest—a few of the most perfect children will be picked for the finals on Friday afternoon.

Builders Busy.
Hyatt & Flynn, carpenters, and Mooney & Flood, masons and contractors, have just completed the erection of a two story dwelling for P. Langendort on Hanratty street. The latter firm has also completed the mason work on a dwelling for a Mr. Barton on Foxhall avenue and Downs street, and on an elastic stucco dwelling for A. Brownrigg at Manor avenue and Downs street.

Looking Death in the Face.
Death does not frighten me now. I think it is like taking chloroform; don't struggle against it, hold the hand of a friend, and it is not half bad with its promise of rest for me and heaven for you.—From "Words in Pain," letters written by a dying Englishwoman to her doctor.

father loved no acts of violence, and the Bolsheviks act only by violence. His father lived by the ideas and teachings of Christ, that only through love can the world have good resulting. Then the speaker defined love. There is the primitive love, but selfishness; then family love which may be instinctive for we find a sort of family love even among the dumb animals. There is love of country called patriotism, which if it becomes selfish may still lead nations to war. There is but one right idea of love; it is the Christian idea of universal love, that all men are brothers and sisters; the highest ideal of love and religion. When this guiding star of love is lost sight of then the world suffers such punishment as it has drawn to itself these past five years. Count Tolstoy said finally that his father could never have been a Bolshevik for he firmly believed in and lived a real Christianity and brotherly love.

After the address which was enthusiastically applauded and the speaker given a rising vote of thanks, the Count was asked what was his idea of the future of Russia. He seemed to think that there could be but one way out. Russia would have to have the financial aid of some outside country, undoubtedly America. But of course America could not recognize Bolshevism as a government. So the Russian people will have to come to adopt some sort of representative government that America can recognize and help; then Russia will not only regain her wholeness but will move forward to better things in the future.

There can be no doubt but that the people of Kingston are indebted to the Kingston Chapter of the Schoolwomen's Clubs for bringing Count Tolstoy to Kingston and giving such a graphic description of "The Truth about Russia."

The afternoon was brought to a close with the singing of one verse of "The Star Spangled Banner."

After the address the teachers, with Superintendent Michael as their leader were the guests of the Chamber of Commerce at the Exposition, which they expressed themselves as finding amazingly worth while visiting.

BILLIONS LOST IN WAR CONTRACTS

Fraud and Profiteering Involved
Vast Amounts That Department of Justice is Powerless to Prove.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Washington, Oct. 23.—Several billions of dollars paid out by the government on fraudulently made war contracts never will be recovered because in the thousands of cases representing those vast payments dishonesty and conspiracy cannot be proved, it was declared officially at the department of justice today.

The department of justice admits that profiteers in many instances in actual league with officials of the government, covered up their tracks so well that government agents are now unable to clinch against them. Many of these cases involve war department and shipping board contracts. In many instances the litigation has been brought to the grand jury stage but has ended there with the discovery that lawyers for the defense had, cleverly blocked action.

The attorney general's reports show however, that in the drive against profiteers, four hundred separate cases, many of them of great magnitude and representing hundreds of millions in money paid out wrongfully by the government, are now undergoing process of liquidation in civil or criminal actions in the federal courts. The department predicts that most of these cases will be terminated successfully for the government with recovery of a substantial part of the sums involved.

The government's greatest loss on war contracts, the department declared, resulted from improperly made contracts, wherein the interests of the government were not protected. There also were improvident settlements made by various government agencies, including some of the independent agencies that were set up hurriedly by war necessity.

It now develops that in some of the more important cases which the government expected to press, all records which might shed light upon such transactions have been destroyed. In a considerable number of cases, it is suspected that men who then occupied important posts in government service, conspired with contractors to destroy evidence of wrong doing.

"Disclosures attending investigations indicate that hundreds of important contracts were entered into by the government with great corporations and manufacturers without proper examination of conditions and requirements," the department said.

"Those contracts were made without the exercise of sound judgment, with carelessness that reflects no credit upon those agents of the government entrusted with authority to negotiate such contracts."

"Billions of dollars were squandered through this class of contracts—billions that never can be recovered."

The department of justice now is making an effort to rush prosecutions in at least 150 cases of the war fraud group. In some of these cases court proceedings may be avoided by settlement out of court.

CATHOLIC DAUGHTERS OF AMERICA SOCIAL THURSDAY

The members of the various committees in charge of arrangements for the charity fund, Halloween social to be given on Thursday, evening at Knights of Columbus Hall, by the Catholic Daughters of America, are working hard preparatory to the event to make it a success. Mrs. Margaret McNeill, trustee, and Mrs. Mary Kogel, vice-regent, are the chairmen of the general committee; Mrs. Julia Leehive and Miss Katherine O'Brien, chairmen of the music committee; Mrs. Mary McCall, trustee, chairman of the refreshment committee; Mrs. Rose A. Hickey, chairman of the charity committee. Balfe's orchestra has been engaged to furnish the music for dancing from 8 to 12 o'clock. The object for holding the social is to raise money for the charity fund of the Daughters who annually do good work in looking after the needy. The social will be open to the public.

New River.
Abbe Mermet, a famous water diver and explorer, has discovered in the Mont Blanc region a great subterranean river, with a volume of about 50,000 gallons per minute. It runs from the base of the mountains under the Saleve and Jura-Alps. This river, which has been named "Eaux-Belles," sends out many branches, which have formed little lakes and wells of pure and extremely cold water in the northeast departments of France and in some southern Swiss cantons.

Abbe Mermet declares that the waters of the "Eaux-Belles," at a depth of 75 to 150 feet, have carved out under the mountain wonderful caverns and grottoes, full of stalactites and stalagmites. Some of the caverns near Geneva are 90 feet high and 150 feet broad.

What's the Use?

The business on a suburban line had increased very rapidly, but there were not enough trains or cars to accommodate the passengers. The overcrowding caused many serious discomforts. The superintendent was called before the board of directors and was asked:

"Why don't you immediately put on more trains and cars?"

"Well," he replied, "what would be the use? They are settling so fast along the line that the people would fill them up and overcrowd them just as before."

Like Other Animals.

Roy had returned from a visit to his aunt and was trying to describe the folding bed he had been sleeping in. "It lays down at night, mamma, and stands on its hind legs in the daytime," he said.

TO RECLAIM LAND

Holland Plans to Drain Part of the Zuyder Zee.

Project, if Carried Out, Will Add an Enormous Amount of Territory to Little Country.

The wonderful little country of Holland is maintained as a safe place for human habitation by means of huge pumping stations and miles upon miles of dykes. Were it not for the dykes, the result of years upon years of building, the sea would sweep over the land. If you should take a ride in a motorboat around the coast, and peep over the dyke, you would discover the roofs of farm buildings just level with your eyes.

At the seaside resorts the only hill in the place is the hill you must climb in order to get to the water's edge. The hill was built by human hands in the age-old fight against the incessant and tireless assaults of the ocean.

Until about 50 years ago the Dutch depended entirely upon windmills to pump the water to the canals, which carry off the surplus water, so that the farm lands may not be submerged. Then steam pumps came into general use, and the quaint but cumbersome windmills were pulled down. During the war, it looked for a while as though the Hollanders would have to rebuild their windmills on account of the acute coal shortage.

However, looking upon the other side of the picture, the Dutch enjoy advantages not possessed by other countries. By means of dykes and damps they may enlarge their domains at will. Today cattle are grazing over wide areas, where 80 years ago fishes were swimming.

A much larger scheme still is now on foot which will add to Holland a whole large country consisting of farming land as rich as the richest portion of many of our states. The whole of the southern part of the Zuyder Zee is to be reclaimed, after being 700 years under the water.

For the redemption of this particular area is in the nature of a counter-offensive by the Dutch. On St. Elizabeth's day in 1223 their hereditary enemy, the North sea, made a big and successful push. Advancing in a huge tidal wave, it swept over 150 square miles of low-lying farmlands, and formed what has since been the southern part of the Zuyder Zee. Many villages vanished beneath the water and 70,000 people lost their lives.

The plan now is to recover all this land, and besides the economic gain, romantically minded people look forward to finding rich treasures there, ancient hoards engulfed with their owners on that wild night when the North sea raced over the land.

Some, however, foretell disastrous results from tampering with nature's dispensations. The Zuyder Zee, they say, forms a great drainage basin for the whole of northern Holland; if it is suppressed the water that would have flowed off there in time of flood may cause inundations. The question is a serious one, for in Holland even great rivers flow to the sea only by artificial aid.

Cliff Timber for Violins.
Valuable violins are being manufactured from wood taken from the ruins of cliff dwellers near Aztec, N. M. While excavating recently Carl Morris, research investigator for the Smithsonian institution, found a number of perfectly preserved timbers which are believed to have been used in constructing the homes of the cliff dwellers.

The dwellings were estimated to be over a thousand years old, and, due to the dry, hot climate that prevails in the vicinity of the ruins, the wood has become so well seasoned that high class violins are being made from it which have a tone, it is said, equal to that of an instrument that has been in use for a number of years.

The instruments are all of fine quality and are bringing high prices.—Kansas City Journal.

Incriminating Publicity.
"All right, senator," said the newspaper photographer, "just clasp hands with Mr. Grabcohn here and I'll take your picture."

"Young man, Mr. Grabcohn and I understand each other. I'd prefer to be photographed shaking hands with some impecunious citizen. There's no use giving my political enemies another opportunity to make the false accusation that I'm too friendly with the moneyed interests."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

The Poet Laureate.

For many centuries in England the poet laureate was an official attached to the king's household. He was originally called the "king's versifier." In modern times the honor is usually conferred upon a poet of some distinction and is held for life. He has no compulsory duties to perform, but he is expected to compose an ode of honor on special state occasions. Great poets have held the office, including William Wordsworth and Lord Tennyson.

Otherwise Occupied.

One morning a neighbor accosted Gertrude:

"I wonder if your little brother could go on an errand for me?"

Gertrude thought it over for a second and then said: "He might manage to go by and by, but not right away, 'cause he is busy just now getting spanked."

THE FOOD DEMONSTRATIONS ARE GREAT!

Six years ago, when Josephine Krayl was 18 and her sister, Marie, was 16, Bohumir Krayl, world famous musician, offered them $100,000 each if, on their 30th birthdays, they had not married, but had devoted their lives to the violin. Josephine met and loved Paul Taylor White, a Boston musician-composer. They were married, and she was cut off. Krayl turned to Marie to carry out his desire and become a great musician, but Marie, though still unmarried, announced her sympathies were entirely with her sister.

Miss Josephine Krayl, daughter of the famous millionaire Chicago bandmaster, was offered $100,000 by her father if she would, forewear marriage and devote her life to her violin until she was thirty. Instead she married Paul Taylor White, Boston musician and composer, whom she met when both were studying under Ysaye. She declared she placed a loving husband, a happy home and babies above wealth and a career. Her father has cut her off, but she is happy in her Back Bay (Boston) home.

THE HENRY FORD LEADS BY MILE

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Gloucester, Mass., Oct. 23.—After a day of doubt as to whether there would be any more international fishermen racing, the American challenger Henry Ford went out to the starting line today with a skeleton crew. The crew still plainly resented the treatment they received Saturday at the hands of the judges and racing committee which called that day's sailing no contest.

The Bluenose, the Canadian champion which was unofficially defeated by the Ford Saturday, took her place on the starting line early.

The race started at 11:03:30 and at 1:30 the Henry Ford on the 137th leg was leading by nearly a mile.

Not gone from my memory
Not gone from my love
But gone to a heavenly home above.
And while he rests in peaceful sleep,
His memory I will always keep
Softly at night when stars are shining.

Upon his cold and silent grave,
Whom I loved but could not save.
Friends may think I have forgotten,
And my wounded heart is healed,
Little do they know the sorrow,
That's within my heart concealed.

STATE ENTERS HALL-MILLS CASE

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Trenton, N. J., Oct. 23.—The state of New Jersey took a hand in clearing up the Hall-Mills murders when Attorney General Thomas F. McCran announced today that he had appointed Wilbur A. Nott, former prosecutor of Essex county as special prosecutor in charge of the investigation into the murder.

The attorney general said that Supreme court Justice Parker had requested him to "take over" the investigation and that he had done so.

About the Folks

Mrs. O. W. Rose of Downs street has left for the south to visit her son.

The Misses Elizabeth and Dorothy Engelbrecht of 14 Smith avenue, are visiting friends in the Bronx, N. Y.

Mrs. M. F. Cully of 207 Smith avenue spent the week end with her sister, Mrs. J. Lynch at Port Washington, L. I.

Arthur Borgwardt of No. 13 W. Strand was removed to the Kingston City Hospital in the ambulance this morning to receive treatment for a rupture.

Andrew J. Murphy, Jr., returned home Sunday evening from attending the national convention of the American Legion held at New Orleans the past week.

Miss Anne Hurley of the Manhattan Scout Association, New York city, spent the week end at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph C. Hurley, O'Neill street.

Mr. and Mrs. Rensie Voorhis of Elizabeth, N. J., have been spending the week end at No. 3 Ten Broeck avenue, visiting Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Bowers. Mrs. Voorhis is a cousin of Mr. Bowers.

Mrs. Philip Miller and daughters, Pearl and Lawson, of East Orange, N. J., and Mrs. Edward Saubermann, of Cincinnati, Ohio, are visiting at the home of Mrs. Julia Barth, 448 Hasbrouck avenue.

Miss Dorothy Davis Rees, one of the expert typists in the recording department at the Ulster County clerk's office, has returned from a visit to Clinton, N. Y., where she attended a house party at Hamilton College.

W. E. McAndrew of Tampa, Florida, who has been touring New York state, was in town on Sunday on his way to Tampa. Mr. McAndrew is a former resident of Kingston but for a number of years has resided in Florida, where he is engaged in business. During the Spanish-American War he served as a member of Company M of this city and on Sunday called on George A. Winter of the firm of E. Winter's Sons, to inquire about many of his former comrades.

STONE RIDGE.

Stone Ridge, Oct. 23.—A chicken supper under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society will be served in the lecture room of the Methodist Church on Tuesday evening, October 24th, beginning at six o'clock. On the evening of October 31, there will be a Halloween party for the whole community on the grounds, and in the lecture room of the Methodist Church. All people of the community are invited to come. There will be no fees.

The post office has now been changed to Frank Davis's store, with Mrs. Etta B. Osterhout as deputy postmaster. The community appreciates the excellent service of Harry Balen, the former postmaster, and wishes him the greatest success in whatever line of work he may now pursue.

Miss Anne G. Hulke of Warwick has been a guest in the home of James Brink during the past week. We are sorry to hear of the illness of Charles Hardenburg.

Friday evening, November 24th Miss Ethel Masterstock and Mrs. Helen Stern Mann will appear at the Elmendorf Presbyterian Church. Miss Masterstock and Mrs. Mann are general favorites in the city being artists of exceptional ability. Program will be published at a later date.

LOCAL DEATH RECORD.

Recent Deaths and Funerals of Persons in This Vicinity.

A second anniversary Mass of requiem will be offered for the repose of the soul of Lawrence J. Gaynor at St. Joseph's Church Tuesday morning, at 8 o'clock.

The funeral of the Rev. W. F. Basten, who died on Sunday, will be held Tuesday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock from his late residence at Walden, N. Y. The interment will be at Marbletown.

Miss Eliza Caddy, a sister of Harry J. Caddy, an employee of the board of public works, died this morning at the Kingston City Hospital where she was removed to on Sunday. She was a daughter of the late Benjamin and Elizabeth Caddy. Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

William A. Stephan died Sunday at his home, No. 38 Williams street. He is survived by his wife, one daughter, Mrs. Charles Caron and one son, Frederick, all of this city. The funeral will be held Wednesday afternoon, at 2 o'clock from the late residence.

John Ryan, a former resident of this city, died at Middletown, N. Y., Sunday evening. Mr. Ryan was well known in this city having been employed by the West Shore railroad as gate tender. He is survived by his wife, two sons, Michael of New York city and Dennis of Pittsburgh and two daughters, Mrs. Melvin Brown and Mrs. Anna Cutler, both Newburgh. The remains will be brought to this city. Funeral notice later.

Charles B. Hall, formerly of Newburgh, died in his home in New Paltz on Thursday in his 66th year. Mr. Hall was a son of the late Robert Hall and was born on the Tammany Hall farm in Little Britain. In his early life he conducted a contracting and carpenter business in western cities and later returned to Orange county, making his home for a time in Newburgh. Mr. Hall went to New Paltz from Newburgh and was engaged in the hardware business for several years. He was well known in Orange and Ulster counties. He is survived by his wife, a son, Melville, of Elizabeth, N. J.; a brother, Samuel, of New Paltz, and a sister, Mrs. George S. Burnett, of Walden.

Christopher Stokes died at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Stokes, at 125 Hunter street, on Saturday evening, following a short illness from pneumonia, aged 18 years. Mr. Stokes was well known in the lower section of the city, especially among the younger people, with whom he had much favor on account of his unselfish and mainly spirit and he leaves a very large circle of friends and acquaintances who will be deeply grieved to learn of his death. Besides his parents, he is survived by four sisters, Mrs. George Sparling, of Corona, N. Y.; Mrs. Asa Clearwater, of High Falls and Ida at home, and five brothers, Daniel, of Corona, L. I.; Stas, of West Park; Hiram, of Lake Mohawk, and Alex and Wright of Kingston. The funeral will be held from the late residence on Tuesday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock, and thence to the Roundout Presbyterian Church where the funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock. Interment in Pine Lush Cemetery, town of Marbletown.

Mary R., widow of the late Richard R. Martin, died on Saturday at her home at Utica, N. Y., in her 89th year. Death was due to the infirmities of old age, although up to three weeks ago Mrs. Martin had enjoyed excellent health. Mrs. Martin was the daughter of Abram T. Sheeley and Maria Wood Sheeley, and was of Holland Dutch descent. She was born in Ulster county, September 17, 1833, and was married September 30, 1853, to Richard R. Martin, who was then engaged in business in the town of Rosendale. Mr. Martin was a native of New Brunswick, N. J. For some years Mr. and Mrs. Martin resided in the town of Rosendale, later removing to Fair street, this city. Mr. Martin died in 1879. For thirty years Mrs. Martin was a resident of Kingston and during that time made many friends. She was devoted to her family but found time for numerous social and philanthropic activities. For more than twenty years she had been a resident of Utica, where she resided with her son, Richard R. Martin. For a number of years she was a member of the First Presbyterian Church. Mrs. Martin was the mother of eight children, of whom two survive, Richard R. Martin and Miss Mary B. Martin, both of Utica. The remains were brought to Kingston this afternoon for interment in the family plot in Wiltwyck Cemetery.

RED CROSS PUTS UP $9,739,872

Year's Budget Stresses Relief and Services at Home and Overseas.

MILLIONS FOR VETERAN AID

Over $3,000,000 Allotted to the Disabled—Foreign Work Lessens.

Washington.—Expenditures totaling $9,739,872.47 for carrying through its program of services and relief during the fiscal year in the United States and overseas are authorized in the budget of the American Red Cross, effective July 1, 1922. This total is $2,735,973 less than the expenditures for the last fiscal year, when disbursements reached $12,475,847.69. It is announced at National Headquarters in a statement emphasizing the necessity of continued support of the organization by enrollment during the annual Roll Call, November 11-November 30 inclusive. This total for the budget is exclusive of the large financial operations of the 3,300 active Red Cross Chapters, which, it is estimated, will more than double the total.

War Veterans Have First Call
First call on Red Cross funds, is for the disabled ex-service men, of whom 27,487 were receiving treatment from the Government on June 1 last. This work for veterans and their families in a wide variety of service that the Government is not authorized to render and for which it has neither funds nor facilities has the call on $3,030,692.90 during the current year, or about $366,000 more than was expended last year for soldier service.

Adding the funds disbursed in this humanitarian work of physical reconstruction following the World War by the Chapters throughout the country will approximate a total for the current year approaching $10,000,000. This work, in the opinion of the Surgeon General's office, will not reach its peak before 1926.

Through its Chapters the American Red Cross is equipped to find the individual ex-service man, help him in his problems and difficulties, provide immediately for his necessities, and open the way for him to the Government compensation and aid to which he is entitled. The extension of this work to the families of such men proves to them that the Red Cross has lost none of its sympathy nor will to service manifested in wartime. Similarly the service goes out to the men still in the Army and Navy, 11,087 of whom were under treatment in Government hospitals on June 1, 1922.

Greater Domestic Program
This year—after five years of constructive effort during the war and after the armistice—brings with it a greater responsibility for domestic service to the American Red Cross.

The budget for foreign operations, however, totals $3,404,000, but of this amount $1,834,000 is for medical relief and hospital supplies for Russia, which is a part of the gift made by the American Red Cross in 1921 to the Russian famine relief work of the American Relief Administration Program. The child health service in Europe continues, moreover, and $634,000 is appropriated for this work undertaken in 1920. Other items in the stringently diminished foreign program include $200,000 to support the League of Red Cross Societies, $22,000 for nurses' training schools instituted by the Red Cross abroad, and $600,000 for liquidation of the general Red Cross foreign relief program.

Prepared for Emergencies
For disaster relief the Red Cross has set aside $750,000, and for emergencies in Chapter work $500,000 to be available for domestic, insular and foreign demands. This is more than $395,000 above last year's expenditures. For service and assistance to the 3,300 Chapters and their branches $1,203,000 is provided by the National organization.

Other budget items of importance in the domestic program include $200,000 for assistance to other organizations and education institutions for training Red Cross nurses and workers; $190,000 for Roll Call assistance furnished to Chapters; $100,000 for unforeseen contingencies.

Of the total budget less than $500,000 is allotted for management in the National organization. No cash estimate, of course, is possible to weigh the value of the service by volunteers in the Chapters.

ELLENVILLE FREEMAN HAD TO COMBAT THREE FIRES

Village Fire Department Kept Busy Last Week.

Three fires within 24 hours kept the Ellenville firemen on the jump since Tuesday night when an alarm brought all three companies to the West End to fight a blaze that totally destroyed a tenement house owned by Christopher Walsh and occupied by Mrs. Atkins. The house was above the Walsh house, and was known as the Maria Brown place.

The second fire, also outside the village limits, occurred Wednesday afternoon, when the large boarding house owned by Augustus Andre, formerly the Fred Schwab place, on the mountain road, was destroyed by a fire that started as a result of sifting ashes, it is thought.

Wednesday night, at about 7 o'clock, the former "Bush house," up the Greenfield road burned to the ground, the blaze being a spectacular one.

NEWBURGH DOWNS LOCAL ELEVEN 7-0

K. H. S. Are Unable to Score Against Hilly City Team—Fumbles Prove Costly—Bellinger's 85 Yard Run Wins the Game.

Saturday the football team of K. H. S. bowed to that of Newburgh Academy for their third defeat of this season. All went well until the final quarter, the teams playing equally well up to that time. Then came the lone touchdown of the game that gave Newburgh a victory over Kingston, which, according to some of the old fans, is the first victory that a football team from the Hilly City has scored over a Kingston team in fifteen years. It at least is the first that Newburgh Academy has scored over Kingston High School, and for that the downriver bunch can thank one Bellinger, who is one of the fastest backs in the league. The touchdown came when Bellinger ran nearly forty yards around left end to the goal line, calling praise from Kingston as well as Newburgh fans. Bellinger was the outstanding star of the Newburgh backfield, although all their backs played a good game. Kingston had no shining light, but everyone who played in the local backfield played excellent football, Colvin making the most gains. The Maroon and White line showed that they knew how to play real football. Cassidy played a wonderful game at passing. He made but one poor pass during the entire game, which is a real record for a high school player. It cannot be said that any of the Kingston players did not do their best. All played good consistent football except for a few fumbles, and they were in truth a match for the blue jerseyed team until the fourth quarter when they began to weaken, permitting the visitors to gain entirely too much ground to make things healthy for them. After Newburgh had scored, the locals drew together again and fought like tigers, but to no avail. At several times in the game, Kingston had had chances to score, but fumbles and lack of good interference were fatal. In this respect, the downriver team had the edge on Kingston. Newburgh has certainly improved in their football playing since last year, and all due credit must be given them.

One feature of the game was the fact that there were but two penalties imposed, both of which were against Newburgh. One was the disqualification of Cohen and the other a five yard penalty when a Newburgh man overran a punt. This speaks well of the sort of playing done by both teams.

Kingston spectators were disappointed when our team did not win, but they cannot afford to censure the team, for Kingston was not beaten alone in the actual combat, but the Newburgh rooters had it all over the Kingston cheering section. Two bus loads of backers accompanied the team and more than a dozen private cars. While the game was being played, the Kingston aggregation, they made more noise in the form of cheering than the whole bunch of Kingstonians put together about as well as a jazz band that hadn't practiced together in a year.

First Quarter.
Bellinger kicked to Anderson. Kingston started off by running Colvin and Souers around end, but failing to make the necessary gain in three downs. Vogt punted 45 yards and a Kingston man caught the catcher before he could gain at all. Bellinger and Moore took turns at center rushes and Newburgh made a first down. Sending Moore through tackle, Bellinger around end, McShane and again Bellinger through center. Newburgh made her second first down in the following plays. Newburgh made another first down. Then Anderson blocked a forward pass and Colvin downed Bellinger in his tracks when the latter attempted a long run around left end, knocking him for a loss. Bellinger was forced to punt, the ball rolling out of bounds just in front of Kingston's ten yard line. Colvin went around left end for four yards, and then the whistle blew for the end of the first quarter.

Second Quarter.
Colvin made about five yards on an off tackle play, and Souers made a first down out of it by another off tackle play. Davis went through center for four yards, and Souers repeated the trick for six yards and our second first down. Colvin through center, Davis off tackle, Souers and again Colvin around end netted us another first down. Failing to make the necessary ten in the three succeeding plays, Vogt kicked about thirty yards out of bounds. Newburgh's ball on the twenty-five yard line. Moore carried the ball off tackle for about two yards, then a fumble on Newburgh's part gave Kingston the ball. Then Kingston began a drive for the goal line. By a series of center rushes and off tackle plays, we made our fourth first down. Colvin through tackle for eight yards. Souers off tackle for one yard. Colvin on a long run around left end failed to make a gain. A forward pass fell in-completed and the ball was handed to Newburgh on their five yard line when the first half ended.

Third Quarter.
Vogt kicked off 40 yards to Thompson, who gained about five yards. Newburgh, failing to gain sufficiently, Bellinger punted on their third down; O'Reilly got through and blocked it and the ball rolled out of bounds. Bellinger punted forty yards to Vogt, who fumbled and this failed to gain but a couple of yards. Colvin went through center for six yards and Souers for about one. At this point Cohen was dropped from the game and Weeks substituted. Kingston failed to make the ten yards and the ball went to Newburgh, who in turn punted on her fourth down. After three small gains, Kingston lost the ball to Newburgh again when a forward pass did not work. Mac Fadden intercepted a forward pass, but Kingston again lost the ball on downs. At this time Symmonetti was substituted for O'Reilly, and O'Callaghan for McShane. Taylor opened up for Newburgh by gaining five yards on an

PO'KEEPSIE WON "Y" ROAD RACE

Saturday, the second of the road races between Kingston and Highland was held under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. of this city and Poughkeepsie. Poughkeepsie again won the race, which started in Highland and ended at the Kingston Fair Grounds. Each boy ran one-half a mile. Poughkeepsie finished two minutes ahead of Kingston. The time of the entire race was one hour thirty minutes.

Those who ran for the local "Y" were: (90 lb. class): Myron Gaddis, Claude Adams, Harold Boyce, Donald Robins, Lee Powell, Carl Brown, Seymour Jacobson, Kenneth Slater, Carl Fixely and Earl Tongue; (110 lb. class): Kenneth Van Etten, Harry Kelleher, Albert Avnet, Wesley Hyatt, John Bruck, Kenneth Hyatt, V. Schoonmaker, Donald Joyce, Ernest Smith, Harold DuBois; (unlimited class): Westbrook Stelle, Bob Clark, A. Roosa, Donald Griffin, Kenneth Warren, Gilbert Sampson, Fred Rice, Richard Rieley, Faran Corregan, Clinton Dederick, Warren Schmidt and Bob Corregan. Corregan finishing. Kingston lost on the first eight men. After that the locals gained ground, but not enough to make up for what they lost at the beginning.

GOVERNOR MILLER SATISFIED HIS WAYS SUIT PEOPLE

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Canandaigua, N. Y., Oct. 23.—Governor Nathan L. Miller, Republican nominee for re-election, came here today from his Syracuse home. Tonight he will open the third week of his campaign. Next week, the final week of the campaign, the governor will speak in New York city and adjoining counties.

In a statement issued from his Syracuse home last night, the governor declared he was "thoroughly satisfied" with the campaign and that he believed the majority of the people wanted the kind of government he has been giving the last two years.

CHOOSE CHICAGO FOR LUTHERAN MISSION BOARD.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Buffalo, N. Y., Oct. 21.—At the meeting today of the United Lutheran Synod, the convention named Chicago as the location for the Board of Home Missions. The matter has been in dispute for the last few years. Those in favor of Chicago were the Rev. G. Keller Ruch, Minneapolis, and the Rev. W. A. Haas, Allentown, Pa. Opposed to the selection of Chicago were the Rev. Dr. John Gehl, Bethlehem, Pa., and the Rev. J. G. Seeger of Philadelphia.

off tackle play. The quarter ended at this point with Newburgh in possession of the ball on her 18 yard line.

Fourth Quarter.
Bellinger started things off by gaining six yards on a long end run, for Newburgh's fourth first down. Taylor went through center for a scant two yards and Bellinger punted 30 yards to Vogt, who ran the ball back ten yards. Souers went through center for no gain and was knocked out in the play. Carroll took his place. Kingston fumbled. The fumble occurred when the ball was passed to Carroll who was not yet settled as he had just entered the play. He missed the ball which rolled back and was recovered by Thompson.

Taylor gained eight yards on a center rush and Moore one on off tackle play. Bellinger did not gain on a lone end run. Kahan was substituted for O'Callaghan. Taylor ran around end for no gain and Kingston took the ball on downs. Vogt immediately kicked 40 yards to Taylor whom Anderson downed before he could make a gain of even a yard. Kahan went through center for one yard. Tunstall was substituted for Moore.

Then came the play that proved fatal to Kingston. Bellinger took the ball and carried it 35 yards to the goal line on a wide end run around the right wing, knocking two Kingston backs and several of the crowd who failed to understand the purpose of the ropes along the sidelines. While the crowd did not interfere with his run, it was only lucky that it didn't. The teams lined up and Taylor drop-kicked the ball through the goal posts for the extra point. Newburgh again kicked off to Anderson, who ran the ball 20 yards to the 40 yard line. Bellinger intercepted an attempted forward pass. Newburgh was again forced to kick. One of her end over-ran the punt and the visitors were penalized five yards. An attempted forward pass went awry. Colvin made a long end run with no gain. He had no interference and was downed before he could find an opening. Vogt kicked 30 yards out of bounds. A center rush netted Newburgh five yards before the final whistle blew. The game ended with the ball on Newburgh's twenty-five yard line and in their possession.

The line-ups were:
Newburgh. Position. Kingston.
O'Leary L. E. H. Anderson
Cohen L. T. McLane
Calver L. G. W. O'Reilly
Kilmartin C. Cassidy
Smith R. G. F. Davenport
Groff R. T. J. F. Anderson
Thompson R. E. Mac Fadden
Taylor Q. B. Vogt
Moore L. H. B. Souers
Bellinger R. H. B. Colvin
McShane F. B. Capt. Davis

Officials.—Delahant, referee, Wesleyan; Williams, umpire, Michigan State; Walker, head Umpire, Albany. Substitutions: (Newburgh) Weeks for Cohen, O'Callaghan for McShane, Kahan for O'Callaghan, Tunstall for Moore; (Kingston)—Symmonetti for O'Reilly, Carroll for Souers. Time of quarters, 12 minutes. First downs made—Newburgh, 4; Kingston, 4. Penalties—Newburgh, 2; Kingston, 0. Touchdowns—Bellinger.

CENTRE HOLDS ITS POPULARITY

Really Out Played Harvard, Fumbles Costing It Game—New York Wants Colonels Next Year.

(By Davis J. Walsh.)

By Telegram to The Freeman.
New York, Oct. 23.—There is a possibility, rather vague just at present, that Centre College will come north to New York for its big football game in 1923. Quite a sizeable bit of money is to be made from doing business with the Colonels, as Harvard will attest, and since the Crimson is bound by agreement to drop intersectional games, Manhattan feels that it is the logical legatee.

If Centre could draw more than 50,000 at the stadium, it would most certainly fill the field of the New York Yankees to its 80,000 capacity and a rich golden harvest for all concerned would be the gratifying result.

Some of its alumnae would like to have Columbia University figure as the party of the second part in this transaction, and the Morningside outfit, having a local appeal, would not be a bad box office bet, provided it can muster something better than second class football next fall. But quite independent of this line of thought, New York promoter is figuring on bringing Centre College here in 1923 to play the leading eastern team of the present season.

Preliminary plans were held in abeyance, however, until it was determined how well the Colonels would do against Harvard. Had they been beaten by four or five touchdowns, as Harvard would be pleased to have had it, Centre College probably would have remained in the south until such time as it could summon another McMillan to carry the banner.

Thanks to the fact that they outplayed Harvard, gaining sixteen first downs to the Crimson's seven, and were even more colorful than before, Centre is a greater attraction than ever. New York, which patronizes anything from street fights to sword-swallowing, would riot at the gates to get its first view of the Kentucky team under colors.

Seemingly, Centre College has become a permanent institution as a box-office boon. For one thing it is always bizarre, as witness the introduction of the lock-step shift at the stadium on Saturday. For another, it has proved that it can carry on from season to season in spite of the loss of its headliners.

McMillan was graduated last spring and in his place Charley Moran uncovered "Flash" Covington, who turned out to be the best ball-runner on the field regardless of the fact that his fumbles helped to lose the Harvard game.

"Red" Roberts will not be among those present next season and it is not reasonable to expect that Moran can produce another just like him. But unless the Colonels suffer a startling form reversal in the game to come, their appeal to eastern crowds will be just as great. Roberts or no Roberts.

Oat Flakes

Consider how they differ

Some oats are rich and plump. They make the large and luscious flakes you find in Mother's Oats. But we get only 10 pounds from a bushel. Some oats are puny and insipid. They lack that delightful flavor. Which kind are you serving?

Oats supply 16 needed elements. They yield 1810 calories of nutriment per pound.

They are rich in body-building elements, in vitamins and minerals. They hold supreme place as a food for growing children.

Then why not serve delicious flakes, the kind that children love?

In Mother's Oats you get the premier oat food, and at one-half cent per dish.
